$1 OF CITY TAX TO GO TO SYSTEM

Plan Calls for Complete Divorce of Atlanta School Department From City Council.

An increase of 33 per cent in city taxes of Atlanta probably will be asked under a new plan to adequately finance the public school system and make it "physically and financially independent of any other governmental agency."

Tacit and informal approval of the program was given Tuesday at a special meeting of a sub-committee named from a composite committee representing the finance committee of city council of the Atlanta board of education and a special citizens' advisory commission appointed by Mayor I. N. Kapsdale.

Although the sub-committee failed to make up a formal report to be offered at a meeting of the composite group, discussion favored such a merger with the Fulton county system and eliminated all other possible schemes for solution of the financial problem facing the local government because of what is said to be the high cost of operation and maintenance of the schools.

Will Offer Definite Plan.

The sub-committee voted to hold another meeting early next week, and to ask Alderman J. Charles Murphy, of the eleventh ward, chairman of the composite committee to defer the meeting of that body which is slated for Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock to the week. In the interim, a definite plan will be evolved, hinging around the generally accepted scheme which will go to the people for ratification if approved by the composite group and city council, provides for raising the present taxes of the city government from $1.50 per $100 to $2 per $100 on the present valuation of 70 per cent of the value with $1.

NAME BRAND AGAIN ON CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN GROUP

Washington, D. C., February 26.—(By Staff Correspondent.)—Representative Charles H. Brand, of Georgia, has again been selected as the state representative on the democratic congressional campaign committee. No contest of his election by the Georgia congressional delegation was formally sent to the committee today. His appointment will be confirmed when the committee meets to organize for the next session.

The congressional campaign committee, both democratic and republican, consists of one member from each state, except where all members of a state delegation belong to one party and function in the election of party candidates for congress. In short, the committee serves the same purpose, with respect to congressional candidates, as the democratic and republican national committees serve in presidential campaigns.

As Georgia's representative on the committee, Judge Brand will be in charge of whatever campaign is necessary in the state in 1930 for the return of democratic candidates. He has held the post with distinction for the past several years.

DEATH OF MUSCLE SHOALS BILL SEEN UNDER HOUSE RULE

Washington, February 26.—(AP)—Death of the Madden bill to lease Muscle Shoals to the American Cyanamid company for fifty years was forecast today when Chairman Snell of the house rules committee said that the measure would not be brought up before the house under special rule.

The only manner in which the measure could be brought to the floor would be under suspension of rules. In view of the limited time remaining of this session and the fact that much controversy surrounds the Madden bill, Chairman Snell said he could not see a way in which final action could be hoped to be obtained at this session.

The measure recently was approved by the house military affairs committee over the protest of Chairman Morin, who filed a minority report in which he said another and more favorable bid for the plants had been submitted.

FOUR NOW IN FIELD FOR COUNTY POST

R. F. Pennington, Dr. Cochran and E. H. Inman Join Longino in Race for Hope's Place.

Entrance Tuesday of Robert F. Pennington, Dr. A. H. Cochran and Edward H. Inman into the race for the post as county commissioner to succeed the late Captain George Hope, forced a four-cornered contest and gave promise of one of the most interesting political battles of the year.

Mr. Pennington and Dr. Cochran threw their hats into the arena Tuesday night. Mr. Inman officially entered Tuesday morning, and the fourth contestant, George Longino, Jr., was the first formal entrant, casting his political future into the fight Monday.

All candidates must qualify by March 5 to be eligible for the election, called for March 20, and registration books closed Saturday. It was predicted that several others would be in the contest before the end of the week.

New Mayor Pro Tem.

Alderman Pennington is at present mayor pro tem of the city of Atlanta, and is one of the most popular members of general council, having been elected at the reorganization meeting of council in January to his present post, without opposition.

He has served as councilman and alderman from the first ward for the past several years and is regarded as one of the most efficient, business-like and progressive members of the local government.

In announcing his formal entry into the race, Mr. Pennington declared that he was actuated by the wishes of a large number of his friends who have importuned him to offer.

"I shall make a more detailed announcement of my platform and what I hope to accomplish if elected, within the near future," Mr. Pennington stated. "At the present time I wish only to say that I am in the race so that my friends may know of my intention to seek the position. My record in council is an open book. I am proud of it. I have been a member of practically every important committee in the city government."

Would Strive for Progress.

"My desire is to represent every section of the county and assist in an economic, business-like and impartial administration of the county's affairs for the progress and prosperity of all its citizens."

Mr. Inman is one of Atlanta's best known business men and a capitalist. He ran second in the race against Captain Hope in the election held last year, being defeated by a small margin. He also is a former member of city council and has held many posts of importance.

"I am a candidate to succeed Captain Hope of the county commission," said Mr. Inman, "and if elected, I promise the citizens of Fulton county that I will devote my best efforts toward giving the taxpayers an economical and business-like administration of the county's affairs."

"I have every grudge and no political debts to pay."

"That vast section known as the Atlanta business district."

38 LIVES IS TOLL TAKEN BY STORMS IN THREE STATES

Texas, Mississippi and Arkansas Count Casualties as New Menace, Disease, Casts Shadow.

Duncan, Miss., February 26.—(United News.)—Physicians, nurses, and an army of Red Cross relief workers joined forces here tonight in concentrated effort to prevent the spread of epidemic diseases in western Mississippi, eastern Arkansas and northern Texas, where tornadoes claimed a toll of 38 lives and inflicted vast property damage.

Shadow of the new menace—disease—projected itself across the scene of desolation as rivers and streams, swollen by torrential rains, began gradually to subside. From sections of Arkansas, however, reports stated that small streams were still cutting rapacious paths to large rivers, which were climbing rapidly toward the flood mark.

The latest count of the tornado dead here tonight was 21.

Red Cross workers and militiamen stated that 50 injured, many seriously, were being cared for in hastily established hospitals and evacuation centers.

Reports from other sections of the storm area stated that two were dead at Grand Prairie, Texas, two dead and five gravely injured at Cooper, Texas, two dead at Dwell, Ark., two dead and three injured by falling timber at Van, Ark., two dead at Darlington, Miss., three dead at Clarksdale, Miss., two dead at Allenton, Miss., and two dead at Marks, Miss. Many of the towns reported the number of injured as undetermined.

Reports from western Mississippi and northern Texas said most of the persons killed were negroes.

While Red Cross workers were heading every effort to care for the injured, American legionnaires and national guard troops, dispatched from neighboring states, began the work of clearing away debris tonight. They were hampered by high winds and rain which made the work of prying through the twisted mass of wreckage a laborious because of slippery footing.

The storm struck here yesterday and virtually wiped the town off the map. Trees were blown down and the ground and hurled through the air for many feet. Houses collapsed before the terrific rush of wind and rain. All telephone and telephone communication was disrupted so that no news of the disaster could be sent to surrounding sections of the county.

So great was the strength of the wind that men and women were hurled down by the blast. One man said he saw the body of a small child hurled through the air and dashed against a high tree trunk. He said what followed was too ghastly to relate.

Negro workers, terrified by the intense flashes of lightning and howling wind, wailed with fanatic fervor for help from heaven. Many of them were frightened beyond speech.

KILLER OF OFFICER IS UNIDENTIFIED

County Officer Dies After Comrade Shoots Down "Man From Cumming" Tuesday Morning.

Identification of the man who was slain Tuesday morning by County Policeman A. A. Stoval after the stranger had fatally wounded County Policeman Bethel L. Hughes in a hand-to-hand struggle over a gun down a steep embankment on Peachtree road, was believed near Tuesday afternoon. A number of visitors to the funeral parlors of Harry G. Poole said that they had seen the slain man around Cumming, Ga.; but that they did not know his name. Other people who may be able to furnish identification were said to be on their way to Atlanta.

Two visitors to the undertaking chapel partially identified the victim Tuesday night. Both said he came from Cumming, but the names they gave were different, and other persons declared positively that these names were incorrect.

With the roaring guns of the mysterious night walker and of his partner, Stoval, echoing in his ears, Hughes died on his way to Grady hospital following the early morning gun battle on Peachtree road. The stranger died almost instantly from the effects of three direct hits scored by Stoval, whom the man is said to have turned his gun upon after disposing of Hughes.

The tragedy came with startling swiftness just a few minutes after Stoval and Hughes, cruising Peachtree road, were seen by a witness.

Pre-Election Backer Expected To Refuse; Desires Nothing But Post as Attorney General.

Senate Would Fight the Colonel on Ground That He "Framed" Wheeler; Other Places Declined.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Washington, D. C., February 26.—Speculation over the position, if any, to be held in the incoming Hoover administration by Colonel William J. Donovan, present assistant United States attorney general, was partially ended tonight when it was learned from an indiscreet source that the president-elect has tendered him the portfolio of war. There only remains the question as to whether Colonel Donovan will accept, a matter that is in doubt for the moment.

After withholding from him the cabinet office which he most desired and first acceptance would have been, of course, President-elect Hoover, it can be authoritatively stated, tendered Colonel Donovan the governor generalship of the Philippine Islands. This was presented by Mr. Hoover as the portfolio of war. There only remains the question as to whether Colonel Donovan will accept, a matter that is in doubt for the moment.

EXECUTES SELF IN HOME-MADE ELECTRIC CHAIR

Long Beach, Calif., February 26.—(United News.)—Apparently worried by pending charges of assault with a deadly weapon, George Mayo, 45-year-old cafeteria clerk, ended his life in an improvised electric chair today.

Mayo, a colored man, was found hanging from a home-made electric chair in his room at the Long Beach Hotel. He had split the end of the electric cord, leading one line to each of the copper electrodes.

After completing his preparations, Mayo evidently seated himself in a chair and turned on the current. Death probably was instantaneous.

At his feet lay a note which read: "God forgive me for what I am about to do." The assassin with deadly weapon charged grew out of a recent quarrel with his stepdaughter.

Committee Agree to Deletion of 24 Million Fund After Voting Two to One for It.

GEORGIAN TO SEEK SECOND PASSAGE

House Gets Jones Bill, Increasing Penalties for Sale of Liquor; Hard Fight Looms.

Washington, February 26.—(AP)—The senate appropriations committee today reversed its position on the Harris proposal for a $24,000,000 increase in prohibition funds and voted down an attempt to add this amount to the second deficiency appropriation bill.

The second deficiency measure, carrying more than $200,000,000 to meet a number of emergency demands scattered throughout the country, was reported to the senate tonight and the prohibition fight will be renewed on the senate floor tomorrow.

Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, the author of the dry fund amendment, announced he would ask the senate to add the $24,000,000 to the bill in the place of the $2,700,000 increase for prohibition enforcement put in the measure by the house upon the recommendation of President Coolidge.

The senate added this amount to the first deficiency measure, now abandoned, by almost a two-to-one vote, but under the consent of tonight that in view of the $2,700,000 increase for dry enforcement that the Harris fund would be defeated. Revisions on the committee lined up solidly against the Harris provision. They were joined by two democrats.

Reject Amendment.

The committee also rejected the amendment of Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, for publicity of hearings on tax refund cases. This amendment to the first deficiency bill was strongly opposed also by Secretary McPherson.

The senate committee did add a number of provisions to the bill, including $6,000,000 for purchase of land for the states of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama; $150,000 for a survey, $100,000 for a survey of the Mount Rushmore, South Dakota, memorial project; $250,000 for the purchase of land for the establishment of a federal building at Salisbury, N. C.; $300,000 for the purchase of land for the establishment of a federal building at Salisbury, N. C.; $300,000 for the purchase of land for the establishment of a federal building at Salisbury, N. C.

Senator Glavin, democrat, Virginia, is prepared to ask the senate to strike from the bill all of its provisions which were included in the first deficiency measure, now dead. While not particularly interested in the $24,000,000 prohibition bill, he does want to force a revival of the first measure as a matter of legislative principle.

The $24,000,000 amendment of Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, for publicity of hearings on tax refund cases, was also included in the first deficiency measure. A presidential commission has been incorporated in the second bill.

But the senate committee also included $200,000 of the increase in prohibition funds available for enforcing the narcotic act.

STAGE FINAL PROHIBITION BATTLE

Washington, February 26.—(United News.)—The final prohibition fight of the seventh congress will be fought tonight in the house tomorrow when the Jones bill providing heavy penalties for liquor law violators will be called up. Dry leaders contend the measure is discriminatory and designed to allow the socially prominent and financially affluent to obtain liquor at the expense of the small hip-pocket voter.

The main point at issue in the bill is the prohibition of the sale of liquor before whom a prohibition case is tried to discriminate between the casual violator and the professional bootlegger in making sentences.

Assistant Secretary of Treasury Lowman told the United News this proviso would enable the courts to "beat down on organized rum rings out of business because they fear without punishing too severely the small fry who takes an occasional drink."

Called Great Aid.

"The Jones bill will be a great aid in enforcing the law," he said. "When a big bootlegger is caught now he gets off with a light fine or a maximum prison sentence of 300 days. When they pay the fine or serve the term they start right back in the illegal business again."

"With heavier fines and longer sentences, liquor traffickers will think twice before they violate the law."

Lowman said passage of the bill would put thousands of small bootleggers out of business because they fear jail sentences. He said it would lead in increasing the price of bootleg liquor, thus forcing many to stop drinking.

Meantime Representative Laguardia, republican, New York, characterized the bill as "discriminatory in that it does not define the various degrees of crime for which punishment is provided."

He permits the socially prominent and the financially affluent to entertain and lavishly serve the limit of human capacity liquor and wines of rare vintage with the risk of an appointment of a cabinet officer, if caught.

FOCH NEAR DEATH AS 4TH RELAPSE DEPRESSES HEART

Generalissimo Is Victim of Condition "Ordinarily Fatal"; Priest Is Called to Bed.

Paris, February 26.—(United News.)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch continued in "an extremely grave condition" tonight despite the fact that his physicians announced he had passed a fairly good day during which his fever decreased.

The present condition of the famous world generalissimo "ordinarily is fatal" to a man 77 years old, it was pointed out.

The present attack is the fourth which Foch has suffered and, although the courageous war leader is offering the greatest resistance, it was admitted that he is steadily weakening under the strain.

Priest Is Summoned.

Father Lambré was summoned to the field marshal's bedside late today, remaining with Foch for 35 minutes.

The physicians were keeping close watch in the sickroom tonight and Dr. Daveniere said that the patient's fever was decreased slightly and the pulse was better. The pulse was 86 and temperature just past 101 degrees.

Five physicians are attending Foch, who has not left his home in Paris since he was stricken with a serious heart attack in January. They have resumed the previous regular bulletins regarding the field marshal's condition.

Suffers Heart Attack.

Marshal Foch's condition became serious again yesterday after he had shown some improvement for several weeks. He suffered a grave heart attack early in January and lay critically ill for several days. During that time crowds of former soldiers, war widows and workers of Paris filled the narrow street before his home, praying for the beloved war leader.

Disturbed diplomats daily visited the house to ask for latest reports but no one was permitted to see him. Even the highest officers of the French army, kept outside the sickroom where the little militarist, whose strategy played such a great part in the world war, was lying, fought with every ounce of his strength.

World Sends Sympathy.

He did not surrender easily, this soldier of the Marne and Ypres, who he had appeared to be winning the struggle.

Hundreds of cablegrams of sympathy poured into Foch's home and political and military leaders of the world offered congratulations when he was able to leave his bed and sit in a big chair with his family before an open fireplace.

For the next few weeks, Foch appeared to be gaining steadily except for one bad day when physicians were hurriedly summoned—and one or two minor setbacks.

His condition then continued without much change and somewhat worse. Last night his condition failed to improve and by morning physicians issued a bulletin saying the war leader was in "extremely grave condition."

ALMA RUBENS SENT TO STATE HOSPITAL ON JUDGE'S ORDER

Los Angeles, February 26.—(AP)—From the glitter of Hollywood's film land where she once reigned as a star in the screen firmament, Alma Rubens today had come to a state hospital, a victim of the narcotic habit, on complaints of her husband and mother.

Upon the Spadra, Cal., institution, she will be confined for a period of not less than eight months nor more than two years by an order which was issued late last night by a special session of Superior Judge H. F. McComb's court. This newest skirmish in the beautiful actress' fight for freedom from the habit was enacted with extreme secrecy.

Judge McComb was called from a theater performance to his court chamber by the actress' mother, Mrs. Teresa Rubens, and her husband, Ricardo Cortez. They asked that a warrant for "Alma R. Cortez's" confinement be issued once. Judge McComb complied, but other than admitting the action, he refused to discuss the case.

Constitution Sports Editor.

Miami Beach, Fla., February 26.—What promises to be either the greatest fight in modern history or the worst fiasco of fantastic fluffery will be a matter of history in another 24 hours. Just whether the physicians or the humorists will gain more business from this fight is a problem that offers much for speculation.

If William Lawrence Stribling and Josef Paul Cuckoshay choose to stand toe-to-toe and argue matters this battle should go down in fight history as one of the greatest of all time, but if one or both of them chooses to run the humorists will get all the material the physicians are supposed to work on after a good fight. It has been said that death is the only certainty in this life of uncertainty. Regarding this fight no truer word was ever spoken. Never was there a more uncertain matter in the history of fisticuffs.

Stage Is Set for Bout.

The proverbial stage is set for the evening's entertainment and its financial success is assured, but that does not lift the veil of uncertainty that shrouds the main battle. Careful analysis helps little in this matter for the very good reason that all careful analysis leads to the rocky impasse of the unknown quantity. Perusal of records leaves one in a sickening muddle. Stribling has failed dismally in two big chances and Sharkey has done the same in more than two, though he has fought some great fights in his career. The records leave one with the impression that the fight tomorrow night will be a terrible fiasco, but there the unknown quantity enters the equation.

What part will psychology play in this problem?

When one begins grappling with psychology one immediately finds himself hopelessly lost in a maze of guesses. But the fact remains that psychology will be 90 per cent of this fight.

In order to arrive at any conclusion at all one must assume certain psychological facts to be true. The as-tree road in a county police car, stopped the stranger as the latter was walking toward Atlanta. The two officers had been on the watch for thieves who had been breaking into a group of stores at Peachtree creek, and they paused to question the man, their suspicions aroused because of the early hour of the morning and the leisurely manner in which he was strolling toward Atlanta.

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC CO.

HUGHES KILLER'S IDENTITY UNCOVERED

Officer Stovall said that on being stopped, the man would not approach the car, but "let a short distance away. In reply to a question as to where he was from, the stranger replied: "Cummings." Stovall said, "Where are you going?" the officer asked, "Macon," the stranger responded and started off again.

Officer Hughes grasped the flashlight which lay upon the seat and jumped out of the car, shining the light on the stranger, who began to walk faster. "Wait a minute," Hughes said, "Wait, hell, I'm going," the man is said to have told Hughes.

The man was almost running when he suddenly whirled, drew a gun aimed at Hughes. Stovall said, "Hughes knocked the gun hand up, and the revolver discharged into the air. Officer Hughes then grappled with the man, and the pair disappeared over the embankment, tumbling down the side in a deadly embrace, Stovall said.

Stovall, on the run to the top of the embankment, heard Hughes yell: "Come here, Stovall, I'm shot," just after another shot rang out, he said. Running down the slope, Stovall arrived at the scene just as another shot was fired, and Hughes, groaning, fell back upon the dirt. The stranger raised himself up, and aimed at Stovall, firing a bullet over the officer's head just as Stovall opened fire with his own weapon. Firing three times, Stovall hit the man once in the head and twice in the chest, he said. A second effort of the stranger to shoot Stovall failed when the gun snapped on a defective cartridge, Stovall said.

Hughes, who was shot in the left thigh and the chest, was still breathing, but the stranger was dead. Officer Stovall carried his comrade back up the embankment, and rushed him to Grady hospital, but Hughes died en route.

Two negro waiters from a Buckhead automobile inn were witnesses of the tragedy. The two officers had given the waiters a lift toward the city at the request of the inn manager.

Body Lies at Poole's.
At Poole's funeral parlors, the stranger was found to have only 90 cents, a pocketknife, a plug of chewing tobacco and the gun. There was no immediate means of identifying him other than through laundry marks. He wore a shabby suit of cotton trousers and a well worn coat, together with a red sweater, an army shirt, and a brown felt hat. He was about 40 years old, five feet, seven inches tall, and weighed about 135 pounds. Fingerprints were taken by Captain M. J. Enright, of the police identification bureau. They failed to check with any on file at headquarters and were sent on to Washington in a further attempt to obtain identification. Attempts to check up on the pistol with which the man killed Hughes also failed.

J. M. Chambers, former secretary of a carpenters' union, Tuesday said that the stranger greatly resembled a man he had seen at meetings of a carpenters' union local, although he did not remember his name.

Officer Hughes was 31 years old, and was married, the father of three children. He lived at 5 Lexie avenue, Buckhead. He was a brother of J. L. Hughes, of the Atlanta police force, who is known in the pugilistic world as Eddie Hanlon, and who is in Miami Beach for the Sharkey-Stirling fight.

Officer Hughes, who had been on the county force for about six years, recently took out group insurance of $4,000 given to the county employees. Hughes and Stovall had been in tight places before, it was recalled by veteran county policemen Tuesday.

Not quite two years ago, with County Policemen Claude Webb and Charles Lyle, the two principals in Tuesday's tragedy were fired on in Grogan's district while on a search for a still. Webb and Lyle were seriously wounded, while Hughes and Stovall poured a stream of lead into the ambush and brought out their wounded comrades.

Last December Hughes and Stovall were assigned to the Peachtree road section, where a number of burglaries had been occurring. Between them they made the night patrol and did a good job of it, their superior officers said Tuesday. Chief George Mathieson stated that Hughes "was one of the best men on the force, always on the job when needed and not afraid of anyone. His death is a great loss to the department."

SENATE PASSES GEORGE MEASURE ON LAND INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., February 26.—(By Staff Correspondent)—Favorable action was taken by the senate today on the resolution by Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, authorizing an investigation of former public lands of California.

The investigation will be undertaken by the public lands committee of the senate and will seek to establish ownership of certain lands in the vicinity of Los Angeles, title to which is now held under an old Mexican land grant alleged to be fraudulent.

Relatives of the late Secretary of State Guy M. McAdams, of Georgia, are claimants to a considerable portion of the property, which is said to be highly valuable. An investigation of the present titles was first proposed several years ago by former Senator Ralph Cameron, of New Mexico, but authority has never been given heretofore.

Tax Commission Chairman Flays Resolutions Passed By Local Real Estate Board

Norman Denies Intimation That Body Is Seeking To Increase Tax Burdens of the People.

Resolutions passed and presented last week to the special state tax commission by the property owners' division of the Atlanta Real Estate board were attacked in a statement Tuesday by R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner and chairman of the special commission.

Mr. Norman resented what he termed an intimation that the special tax commission was appointed by the governor for the purpose of "devising ways and means of increasing the tax burdens of the people" and "increasing the tax units and departments of government." He characterized these statements of the Atlanta property owners, embodied in the resolutions, as "a totally unwarranted assumption."

He declared that the present ad valorem tax system in Georgia is a tax on ignorance and honesty and bears heavily on those least able to pay. The old system of one fixed method of levy has been universally recognized as completely unfit for modern conditions. Mr. Norman said and has been abandoned by a majority of the states and condemned by every competent authority on finance and taxation. He called attention to four special commissions in Georgia having "joined in the universal chorus of condemnation."

Economy "Smoke Screen."
Mr. Norman asserted that economy, about which he said the Atlanta property owners had much to say in their resolutions, has been the "smoke screen" behind which "selfish and powerful interests" have "clouded the real issue" ever since agitation for tax reform started in Georgia. He said it is a fact that per capita taxation in Georgia is the lowest of any state in the union, and pointed to the personnel of the special commission as "sufficient guarantee that the matter of efficiency and economy will not be disregarded."

Chairman Norman's complete statement is as follows:
"The governor recently appointed a special tax commission to study the revenue system of the state and make recommendations that would more equitably equalize the burden of taxation."

"This commission is composed of members of the general assembly and outstanding citizens representing the various business interests in Georgia. It is a thoroughly conservative, intelligent and representative body."
"Even before this commission has had the time or the opportunity to make a study or arrive at any definite conclusions certain members of the property owners' division of the Atlanta real estate board have become greatly exercised and are gratuitously assuming that this body is formed for purposes entirely foreign to its organization. Even before the commission has given birth to a concrete idea the gentlemen composing this committee are suffering severe pains."

"Premature Concern."
"In view of the premature concern exhibited by these distinguished and wealthy gentlemen of the city of Atlanta it might be pertinent to inquire whether they have more to fear from a revamping of our obsolete and outworn system and a real distribution of the tax burden than from a continuance of the present ineffective method which has always and everywhere afforded a loophole for the escape of wealth and cast a burden upon the small home owner and farmer."

"Tax revision has been an issue in Georgia for more than a generation. It is universally recognized that the antiquated system of one uniform rate and one fixed method of levy is thoroughly and completely unfit for modern conditions.

"It has been abandoned by a vast majority of the states of the union. It is condemned by every competent authority on finance and taxation. Four special commissions composed of intelligent and patriotic Georgians have joined in the universal chorus of condemnation."

"The democratic party in convention assembly last fall demanded that a change be made. The working of the old ad valorem method in Georgia has abundantly demonstrated that it is a tax on ignorance and honesty and bears most heavily on those least able to pay."

"Unwarranted Assumption."
"The intimation that the commission was created for the purpose of 'devising ways and means of increasing the tax burdens of the people' and 'increasing the tax units and departments of government' is a totally unwarranted assumption."

"I think it will not be out of place for me to say that so far as the members of the commission have expressed themselves they are thoroughly committed to relieving as far as possible the burden that rests upon the small real estate holder."

"The distinguished and wealthy gentlemen have much to say about economy. Through the long years of agitation for tax reform in Georgia this has been the smoke screen behind which selfish and powerful interests have clouded the real issue. The fact is that the per capita tax rate in Georgia today is the lowest of any state in the union. The personnel of the special tax commission is a sufficient guarantee that the matter of economy and efficiency will not be disregarded."

Suggestions Asked.
"If the distinguished and wealthy Atlanta property owners can suggest a better remedy for relieving real estate than that of bridling some of the vast amount of intangible wealth outside of taxation under the present system and exacting at least a small contribution from large incomes and salaries, I am quite sure the commission will be delighted to have their remedy."

"If the distinguished and wealthy gentlemen can present to the commission a plan whereby the 15,000 needy school teachers in Georgia can be paid and the farmer and small real estate owner be relieved, without a change in the old patchwork affair that has failed throughout the years, I am quite confident the commission will be more than delighted to adopt such plan."

"R. C. NORMAN,
"Chairman Special Tax Commission."

FLORIDA FLOOD BILL WILL NOT BE PRESSED

Washington, February 26.—(AP)—Because of opposition in eastern Florida to his measure to provide $6,000,000 for flood control and reclamation work in storm-stricken Lake Okeechobee area in Florida and because only a few days remain of the present session, Representative Drape, democrat, Florida, told the house flood control committee that he would not press for further action at this session.

Chairman Reid, of the house flood control committee, requested Representative Drape to inform the committee as to what action he desired on his revised bill, while it had not been reported, had been written with the approval of the members and the army chief of engineers.

Representative Drape said that many protests from Florida people living on the eastern shore had been received by representatives, and in view of this opposition and the short time remaining of the present session he thought it would be better to attempt to get action now. He declared, however, he would press for action at the next session of congress.

EUGENE TALMADGE TO FIGHT DEMAND FOR BACK SALARIES
Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, will leave Atlanta Wednesday morning for Macon and Macon, Ga. In Macon he will deliver a speech on agriculture before the Rotary club of that city Wednesday. He will leave Macon Wednesday night for McIntosh and will be present Thursday at a session of the Oconee circuit to appear in litigation involving the payment of back salaries to forty discharged fertilizer inspectors.

The suits for back pay were filed by forty short term inspectors after Judge Eschel Graham, of the Oconee circuit, had ruled that four long term fertilizer inspectors, who were discharged by Talmadge, were entitled to their pay. The forty cases will be heard Tuesday morning before Judge Graham. The inspectors will contend that they held commissions issued by J. J. Brown and that Commissioner Talmadge had no authority to discharge them until expiration of these commissions.

J. A. HOLLOMON'S DEATH DEPLORED BY HOO-HOO CLUB

A resolution mourning the death of James A. Hollomon, late associate editor of The Constitution, was adopted Tuesday by the Atlanta Hoo-hoo club, No. 1, which Mr. Hollomon was a member. A page in the minute book of the order also was dedicated to the memory of Mr. Hollomon.

Vegetable Shortening Firm Asks More Time; Ban Ordered March 1

A request for extension of the order issued recently by Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, which banned certain "vegetable shortenings" from the Georgia market, has been received by the commissioner from a Memphis concern manufacturing such shortenings. In a telegram, the Dixie Margarine company told the commissioner that "large quantities of peanut and cottonseed oil grown in the south" were used in manufacturing the product in question and that "jobbers and their customers have large stocks of the goods on hand, and it will be impossible to move on such short notice."

The commissioner's order, set March 1 as the date on which the ban would become effective.

Woodruff and Jessup Are Named Directors Of Security Company

Edward E. Jessup, of Lee Higginson and company, and Ernest Woodruff, president of the Prudential Securities corporation, a director of the Coca-Cola company and several other large corporations, have been elected directors of the National Security company, according to information received in Atlanta Tuesday. The board of directors at their meeting declared the nineteen-cent common stock a dividend of $1.25 a share on $50 par value capital stock payable April 1, to stockholders of record March 18, the date set for the election.

Mr. Woodruff stated Tuesday night that he had been questioned some time ago if he would accept a position as a director of the company and that he had agreed to do so.

Georgia Road Conditions Scourged by N. Y. Broker

Highway conditions in Georgia and South Carolina are the worst ever encountered by Arthur E. Orvis, manager of the miscellaneous commodity department of Orvis Brothers & company, stock brokers of New York, who is a motoring enthusiast with a traveling car that covers the entire United States and many European countries.

Mr. Orvis is stopping at the Georgian Terrace hotel, having driven here under many inconveniences from Augusta, he said. Mrs. Orvis is accompanying him.

"Never in my life have I had to endure such unnecessary inconvenience and hazards as on the highways of Georgia and South Carolina," he stated. "Recent rains have converted them into dangerous morasses of mud that brand them as a disgrace to two such wonderful states."

"Coming down from New York we encountered the finest roads through North Carolina. We passed through that state in the rain, but the roads were excellent and driving was safe."

Fear That Missing Thomasville Man Has Been Slain

Thomasville, Ga., February 26.—(Special).—Although the search for Kent E. Matting, Thomasville lumberman, missing since February 18, is still being vigorously prosecuted, no additional information or fresh clue has developed. Today a party of men from here are in the territory around Milton, Fla., endeavoring to follow up the clue furnished over the telephone Monday by a barber there, who reported having a man last Thursday morning who was very nervous, that answered published descriptions of Mack, and drove a new car of the type of automobile the missing man was driving when he left here. The conviction is steadily gaining ground here that Mack has been killed. Florida paved highway No. 1, that traverses the section just south of Thomasville, is reported lined with more holes about than at any time since the boom of three years ago, and Mack had the reputation of picking up anyone who waved him down on the road.

The tablets will contain Lincoln's Gettysburg address and Logan's Memorial day order.

White Teeth turned dull by Film

The new way dentists urge to restore teeth to dazzling brilliance—to combat dental troubles.

SCIENCE has made a significant discovery. The cause of dull, discolored teeth is found to be the chief cause of serious tooth and gum disorders. That cause is a film that forms on teeth.

You can feel film with your tongue—a slippery, viscous coating. It clings to teeth and gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs stains from food and smoking to turn white teeth "off color" and cloud their brilliance. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, plus tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

To remove film dentists prescribe the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film so that brushing easily removes it.

Start today. Get Pepsodent at any drug counter or write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

"Test it for taste"

With any other bread

Buy two loaves of bread—one Merita and one of another kind—notice the difference in appearance, now slice them, see how much better Merita slices, and when you come to the "taste test" you will notice a marked superiority in the palatability of Merita over other bread.

We ask that you make this test because we know what the result will be. You will prefer Merita because in order to obtain that rich, nut-like flavor, the flour, milk, shortening, sugar, malt, yeast and salt are all laboratory tested before the bread is mixed, and the baking process is handled by Master Bakers of skilled experience.

That is also the reason Merita Bread is so high in nutritive value. If it looks better, slices better and tastes better, you are sure of ample nutrition... make the taste test and see for yourself.

PACKARD

Outsold Them All!

A Remarkable Endorsement of the New Packard Eights By the World's Most Discriminating Market

ACCORDING to the official registrations, more new Packards were delivered to purchasers in New York County during October, November and December, 1928, than any other make except Ford. Thus did the world's most discriminating motor car market place its unqualified approval upon the new Packard Eights.

There would be enough glory and recommendation for Packard if it had led only those cars in its own price class . . . which it does and has done for many years. But this record was made in competition with cars priced from $500 to $2000 less than the average Packard.

There can be but one reason for this astonishing success. Packards are purchased on their economic worth—their dollar value, as represented by greater satisfaction, longer life and low maintenance.

If you would like to know more about the many superiorities of Packard manufacture and the advantages of Packard ownership, we will welcome an opportunity to demonstrate them fully. Just call at our salesrooms or, if you prefer, telephone us and we will bring a Packard Eight to your door.

If you desire to buy out of income, you will find the Packard Payment Plan most attractive. Many take possession of their new cars without any cash outlay because the used car allowance equals or exceeds the down payment on the new car.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH TO EXPAND IN SOUTH

Plan of Development Is Announced by Southern General Manager Ribble.

After several days' conference with the executives of the Postal Telegraph company in New York, G. W. Ribble, general manager of the southern division, has returned to his offices in Atlanta and announced Tuesday that a program of expansion and development of Postal facilities in the south would be undertaken at once.

"Not only will surveys be immediately made of a long list of chosen prospects for new offices," Mr. Ribble said, "but it has been decided that all increased gross revenue received by the Postal company in the south for some time to come will be expended in the south in the extension of competitive telegraph and cable service and in the betterment of existing plant."

This decision was reached after a careful study of the trend of industry to the south, and is in keeping with the progressive policies of the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation, the new owners of the Postal Telegraph and Commercial Cable properties, and the largest American international communications system.

"It will be recalled that the Postal recently adopted a liberal station plan for its employees and is now in process of uniforming at its own expense every messenger in its employ, with a new and striking type of uniform and also has under consideration a number of other progressive plans which will be reflected in further improvement and popularization of the telegraph and cable branch of communication."

"The plan of reinvigorating all of its increased gross revenue in the same section where it is produced is a novel departure, and in view of the expected growth of business resulting from these progressive policies, it is believed that the south will before long have a complete competition in the telegraph field."

$500 ASKED FOR TRIP BY BOYS' ORCHESTRA

High School Organization Invited to Conference in Asheville.

Contributions of $5 each from 100 Atlantans are being sought by the Parent-Teacher association of Boys' High school to finance appearance of the Boys' High school orchestra on the program of the Southern Conference for Music Education to be held March 6, 7, 8 in Asheville, N. C., it was announced Tuesday by Mrs. W. V. Kingston, chairman of a committee in charge.

On the strength of its record the past two years, the Boys' High orchestra was invited to fill a place on the program at the conference, the only organization in the south asked to participate in the program, it is said.

Participation by the orchestra in this convention will be of inestimable value as experience to the members of the organization," the announcement said, "and a highly creditable demonstration of what one of the senior high schools of Atlanta has developed as a musical organization."

In order to accept this invitation, it is imperative that funds be raised to enable the orchestra to make the trip to Asheville. After investigation we find that no organization, neither the city nor the county, can provide sufficient funds to cover expenses of the trip and, after deliberation, we have decided that there are a sufficient number of local Atlanta people who would contribute $5 in order that the $500 needed can be raised."

The Parent-Teacher association of the school named the special committee in charge of raising the funds as follows: Mrs. M. V. Kingston, Mrs. Ed Pierce, Mrs. Henry Bauer, H. O. Smith, J. Allen Couch, Louis Regenstein and Wilbur G. Kurtz.

Contributions may be mailed to Mrs. Kingston at 1102 Springdale road.

He has two immense real estate developments in the south, one at Albany and the other in Collier county, Florida, both of which, he stated, were progressing nicely.

He was on his way to New York to attend a national meeting of Boy Scout executives, having been vice president of the organization for many years, and well known for his work in this connection.

MARKET BUREAU TO HOLD POULTRY AND HOG SALES

Hog and poultry sales in 26 south Georgia communities will be held next week by the state bureau of markets it was announced Tuesday. Special freight cars will be sent to the communities to transport the stock and poultry sold during the sales.

BARRON COLLIER PAYS ATLANTA BRIEF VISIT

Widely-Known Advertising Man Optimistic Over Future of South.

Stopping off in Atlanta Tuesday on his way to New York, Barron G. Collier, widely known advertising man, was most optimistic in regard to the future development of South Georgia and Florida. Mr. Collier himself has invested millions in real estate in the two states.

"Florida is this year enjoying the greatest tourist season in her history," he declared. "The state is crowded with visitors and, together with the southern part of Georgia, is reaping a harvest which was not even surpassed a few years ago when the eyes of the whole nation were centered on that section."

Mr. Collier also was most enthusiastic about the present season's fruit crop in Florida which he said undoubtedly would be the best in many years.

He has two immense real estate developments in the south, one at Albany and the other in Collier county, Florida, both of which, he stated, were progressing nicely.

He was on his way to New York to attend a national meeting of Boy Scout executives, having been vice president of the organization for many years, and well known for his work in this connection.

RIDLEY M. JUSTIS MUST SERVE IN PEN ON "DOPE" CHARGE

Judge S. H. Sibley, of the United States district court, Tuesday signed an order revoking the probation of Ridley M. Justis, who was sentenced in June, 1925, to five years in the penitentiary on a Harrison narcotic charge, two of which were to be served and three of which were to be on probation.

A hearing was called the latter part of 1928 at which time Justis was to show cause why the parole order should not be revoked and this had been continued from time to time until the order was signed Tuesday. He is said to have two prohibition cases pending against him at the present time.

W. E. Maynard was sentenced Tuesday by Judge Sibley to serve a year and a day on charges of violating the Harrison narcotic act.

Martha Berry To Address American Forestry Meeting

Miss Martha Berry, founder of the Berry schools, Georgia, and a nationally-known educator, has accepted the invitation of the American Forestry association to address its annual meeting, to be held at Jacksonville, Fla., February 27, 28 and March 1.

The meeting will be held jointly with the Florida Forestry association.

Heard in the mountains of north Georgia, where her three schools are now located, Miss Berry conceived a vision of the good she could accomplish by bringing the advantages of education to these isolated people whom progress had passed by.

The story of her schools, in their setting of some 5,000 acres of "mountain forest," and how she developed them from a small beginning, is familiar to all people of the south. In 1925 she won national recognition when President Coolidge decorated her with the Roosevelt medal.

Among other prominent speakers on the program are George D. Pratt, president, the American Forestry association; E. A. Sherman, associate forester; U. S. forest service; Dr. John C. Merriam, president, Carnegie institution, Washington, D. C.; Dr. David Fairchild, famous foreign plant explorer; T. S. department of agriculture; Reuben Robertson, president, Champion Fibre company, North Carolina; and Ralph W. Gwinn, of the Penney-Gwinn corporation, New York and Florida.

At this afternoon's 4 o'clock lecture at St. Luke's Episcopal church, Peachtree and Alexander streets, the Rev. N. R. High Moor will deliver his third lecture on the subject "Beauty Spots of the Bible." The talk will last for 30 minutes and the public is invited.

PENSION PAYMENTS TO VETS OF GRAY WILL BE DELAYED

Payment of pensions to Confederate veterans and widows of veterans will be delayed until notice is given by the governor that there is a sufficient amount of money in the treasury to cover these pensions, according to Captain John W. Clark, state pension commissioner. The commissioner pointed out that it is against the law for him to draw the pension warrants before he is notified that the money is on hand in the treasury to pay them. He expressed the opinion that the funds soon would be available and that the pensioners would get their money several weeks earlier this year than last, when the payments for the first quarter were not made until April 1.

LOCAL CIVITANS PLAN FOR JUNE CONVENTION

Atlanta and Georgia Clubs Will Cooperate To Make Meeting a Success.

Civitan International will hold its annual convention here June 10, 11 and 12 and the Atlanta Civitan club, with the cooperation of its fellow clubs throughout the state, Tuesday launched a campaign to make the convention here the most successful and greatest in the history of the international organization.

After obtaining promises of unlimited support from the Atlanta club at its regular Tuesday noon luncheon meeting at the Atlanta Athletic club, trustees, governors and deputy governors from all over the state met to discuss plans for the entertainment of the several thousand visitors who are expected to attend the international sessions here.

Herbert Porter, governor of the Atlanta district was in charge of the conferences, at the conclusion of which he announced that within a few weeks state and local clubs and individual members would be assigned to committee far in advance of the opening of the convention in order that everything may be in readiness when the delegates and visitors arrived.

"All over Georgia there is an unparalleled spontaneity of support for the convention," Mr. Porter said. "The clubs from downstate are giving their whole-hearted efforts to making this gathering a success and are going to have our friends so well pleased that they will never forget their visit to the heart of Dixie."

Mr. Porter also reported that women's committee composed of wives of a number of Atlanta Civitans also was working on the convention and promised some novel entertainment for the wives, mothers and sweethearts accompanying the delegates here.

"Special entertainment in the form of teas, receptions and parties will be on the program for the ladies," Mr. Porter said. "While the men are attending the regular business sessions the ladies will have plenty to do for our women's committee is going to map out a program that will keep them busy every hour of the day."

GOVERNOR DELAYS MAKING DECISION ON INAUGURAL TRIP

Governor L. G. Hardman will not announce until his arrival here plans for attending the inauguration of President-elect Herbert Hoover in Washington March 4.

In a telegram to Adjutant General Homer C. Parker the governor stated that he would arrive in Atlanta Wednesday and would make public on his arrival his decision as to whether or not he will attend the inaugural ceremonies.

If the governor does not make the trip the special escort composed of the members of his staff will be disbanded. The staff members were notified several weeks ago of the trip and many of them have perfected plans for attending the inaugural.

In the event the governor goes to Washington the official party will leave Atlanta at noon Friday.

THE average man takes out insurance, sits back and says, "There, now, I have provided for my family." But has he?

His wife has led a sheltered life. She has no business experience. She is utterly unfamiliar with the pitfalls of modern finance, the traps that lie along the path of money. And, as a result, 90% of all insurance money is dissipated within seven years. Those are the actual, tragic figures.

Insurance is only half your duty. Leaving an adequate estate is only half your duty. You must plan means to carry on your own wise supervision of your funds after you are gone.

The modern way, proven by years of practice, is to establish a Trust for the benefit of your family. In this all your assets are placed under the supervision of a Corporate Executor—the Trust Department of a strong, sound, bank—for protection. And when you pass on, your estate continues, wisely administered.

The Trust Department of the Fourth National will gladly talk over with you the trifling cost and the tremendous advantages of such a plan. Under the supervision of the Federal government, this Department can serve you constructively and well.

We will send on request an interesting booklet, "A Modern Life Insurance Program," which deals with this important subject.

Application for Franchise For Atlanta Natural Gas Corporation Is Filed Here

Petition, Handed to City Clerk, Will Be Considered by Council at Monday's Session.

Petition for a franchise for the Atlanta Natural Gas corporation, a subsidiary of the Southern Natural Gas corporation, of Delaware, to distribute the commodity in Atlanta, was filed Tuesday with the city clerk. The papers will go to city council Monday for consideration of that body.

Renben R. Arnold, local attorney for the company, filed the papers with the city clerk and then a delegation of officials visited Mayor I. N. Hardee in his offices. Others in the delegation included Judge R. C. Allen, of Tulsa, Okla., general counsel for the company, who headed the committee; J. Hart Willis, of Dallas, associate counsel, and M. E. Simons, of G. H. Christman & Co., New York.

The application filed Tuesday asking for the franchise seeks to use the streets, avenues, roads, alleys and public ways of the city in which to lay and maintain pipe lines, laterals, appurtenances, appliances and equipment designed to assist in distribution of the product throughout the city.

Domestic as well as commercial and industrial service is contemplated. According to the petition, the Atlanta Natural Gas corporation is a Delaware corporation, licensed by the secretary of state to do business in Atlanta and Georgia.

Actual construction of the pipe lines to bring the natural gas to Atlanta will be begun in the immediate future in the event the franchise is granted, Judge Allen said. Rights of way have been surveyed and the project will be conveyed from the fields of northern Louisiana.

The company at first attempted to negotiate a contract with the Atlanta Gas Light company, which now furnishes artificial gas to Atlanta and its suburbs, to sell that firm the commodity at a wholesale price, the petition set out. Failing to consummate this, the company sets out that it decided to establish its own distribution system and in line with that decision has applied for the franchise.

George Cornett, photographer and a member of The Constitution staff, these many years, has earned much of his salary by telling people "Hold still, now, it'll be just a minute."

George couldn't hold himself still all day Tuesday. He paced back and forth across his office. Obviously something was in the air. George couldn't work and the burden of photographing the day's news fell entirely upon his associates.

In mid-afternoon George received a telephone call. He hurried, in fact, bolted, from the office, announcing his destination as the Georgia Baptist hospital.

George was back in a couple of hours. He was smiling, smiling as only a photographer smiles when he scores a big scoop.

Calling his associates to his side he triumphantly announced that he was the proud father of a baby girl born at 2:30 p. m.

"No, she won't be interviewed and what's more she won't pose for a picture—just yet," George informed the boys when they insisted on going to the hospital. But he promised that he would chronicle the first cry, the first tooth, the first crawl, etc., in photographs and give The Constitution first shot at all the pictures.

Then George went home to 348 Sterling, E., and to sleep. He promised to be back on the job today.

Atlanta will be included on the itinerary of 250 students of Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., who will stop over here Monday, March 4, on a spring holiday tour which will include Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, and North and South Carolina, it was announced Tuesday.

The 250 young women students will remain in Atlanta for a day and night, seeing trips to Stone Mountain, the Cyclorama and other places of interest. This is the fourth year the students have made a trip under supervision of faculty members. Purpose of the trip is to obtain for the students the educational value of travel, it was said.

ATLANTA REGIMENT HEADS TO DISCUSS INSPECTION TODAY

Officers of the 122d infantry, Atlanta national guard regiment, will meet today for their weekly luncheon meeting and will hear final instructions regarding the annual inspection of the regiment, which begins next Monday night.

Colonel Charles H. Cox, commander, and Colonel Pat Stevens, senior instructor, will outline different phases of the past year's work upon which it is expected the inspecting officers will be insistent for information. Inspectors will arrive the latter part of this week, and be ready for the Monday night's drill session to begin inspection.

Lieutenant Colonel G. P. O'Keefe, executive officer of the regiment, has spent much time during the past two months in preparing the outfit to stand what it is believed its most creditable test this year, and his report at the Monday night officers' meeting was enthusiastic.

"I think the regiment is in the best shape it has shown since organization," he said, "and I believe the regular army inspectors are going to be pleasantly surprised when the regimental inspection is over. Our personnel, officers and men, is very high, and our equipment is in fine shape and the esprit de corps unusually high."

The Sargon representative is at Jacobs' main store, 6 and 8 Marietta street, where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of the medicine. Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills may also be obtained at the other Jacobs' stores all over Atlanta.—(adv.)

WIDOW PROCURED GUN, WITNESS DECLARES

Preliminary Hearing at Americus for Woman
Charged With Murder.

Americus, Ga., February 26.—(AP)—A packed courtroom today listened for 10 hours to evidence offered in the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Idelle Grantham, charged with shooting to death her husband, whom she claims committed suicide, with prospects that as great a throng would be present tomorrow when the committal trial is resumed.

Catarrh Is Most Common Cause of Colds and Flu

Find a man, woman or child who is afflicted with chronic catarrh of the nose and its connecting air passages and you will always find a patient who is most susceptible to more serious diseases. Why? Science explains that catarrh interferes with natural breathing, thus preventing proper oxygenation and purification of the blood by the lungs and also absolutely prevents restful, refreshing sleep. Catarrh is a constant drain upon the nutrition of the body, making the patient weak and thereby susceptible to all germ infections such as colds, flu, pneumonia, etc.

Your physician will tell you that catarrh is a local condition, not a systemic disease. You must fight it constantly with a local remedy that reaches the spot. Of the many remeand occasionally wiped tears from her eyes.

Evidence was offered by the state to show that shortly before his death Grantham had considered bringing proceedings for divorce, and of the husband's surprising his wife with an American man whose name was not mentioned a few days before his death.

C. C. Bailey, who told of Grantham's surprising his wife and the unnamed man, also testified that Mrs. Grantham had borrowed a pistol from Mrs. Richard Lowrey, in Webster county, the night of the tragedy.

Mrs. Lowrey corroborated Bailey's testimony, testifying that Mrs. Grantham in a "highly nervous" condition had come to her to borrow the weapon, which the state contends was used in killing Grantham.

C. E. McGowan, mortician, and Dr. E. B. Anderson, both said that close examination of the two bullet wounds in Grantham's head showed no signs of powder burns. The physician further testified that Mrs. Grantham did not come into the room where her husband lay mortally wounded, nor did she manifest any interest in his condition.

Dr. Anderson also testified that the wounds were of such a nature that Grantham's left side was paralyzed and that it would have been impossible for the man to have drawn his arm up in the position that he found it when he arrived to attend him.

A county patrolman also was called to testify that he, with two other officers, had experimented with the Grantham pistol and when fired with in seven inches of the body of a dead rabbit powder burns were distinct and that from a distance of 11 inches such burns were distinguishable.

When the state had rested, the defense began calling witnesses to establish Grantham's financial and domestic difficulties.

Debs that Grantham had made and his wife were related by defense witnesses.

J. C. King and V. K. Kease, with whom Grantham had been associated in the lumber business, said that Grantham had been advanced $500 by the Moore Lumber company, to furnish bail for his release from jail and that this sum was never paid back. They also testified that Grantham's indebtedness to the company had steadily increased until his credit had been stopped and at the time of his death, so far as they knew, he was without financial backers.

TWO MEN INDICTED
Looting of Spring Street
Restaurant Charged.

An indictment charging a Robert Jackson and George Brown with burglarizing the restaurant of Charles Drakas and Tom Kalamas, at 102 Spring, S. W., on February 21, was returned Tuesday by the Fulton grand jury. Jackson and Brown are alleged to have taken cigars, cigarettes, and cash valued at $103.11.

Another burglary indictment charges P. H. Emmett with stealing $30 from the hotel room of Max Helperin, of New York city, on February 21.

James Thomas, alias John Thomas, is charged in a burglary indictment with having stolen clothes and cash to the value of $223.35 from The Toggery, operated by Ben Levine, at 191 West Mitchell street.

W. B. Hudgins was named as defendant in two true bills, one charging an attempt to commit burglary by unlocking two locks on the front door of the store of A. C. Maxwell, at 124 Cain street, N. W., and the other charging possession of five false keys and picks for opening locks.

FLOODS DRIVE MACON PEOPLE FROM HOMES

Ocmulgee River Rises Rapidly,
Submerging Bridge,
as Rainfall Continues.

Macon, Ga., February 26.—(AP)—The Ocmulgee river was rising rapidly at Macon and points above and below this city tonight, with indications that by morning the stream may be above flood stage, 18 feet. The measurement this morning was 9.1 feet. The rainfall during the day measured 2.89 inches and it was still raining when the observation was taken at 7:40 p. m.

An advisory river warning was issued by the weather bureau this morning to points along the Ocmulgee and Oconee rivers.

At the waterworks pumping station at 8:30 o'clock tonight workmen reported a sudden rise of 8 feet, and that the water had risen two feet above the railing on the bridge approaching the station, under the Southern railway trestle. It has been higher, it was stated, but not in a long time. The trestle was considered in no danger, but employees of the station had to walk the railroad trestle to get in and out of the waterworks pumping station. The station was in no immediate danger of being flooded, it was stated.

The river was spreading out over the lowlands in East Macon so that an exodus of persons residing in the lowlands had begun. By morning it is expected all of the people residing in the houses along Water street will be out of their homes.

The rains have been general through the watershed above Macon, the weather bureau announced, Griffin reporting 2.24 inches from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m.; Greensboro .38 of an inch.

CHEATING IS CHARGED

Five Men Are Accused in Realty Deal.

Two indictments for alleged cheating and swindling in connection with property transactions were returned Tuesday by the Fulton grand jury.

In one of the true bills C. W. Cary, J. R. Phillips, Roy S. Drennan, L. E. Cox and L. A. Trowbridge are accused of defrauding Mrs. Maggie Y. Trowdell, of 123 Linden, N. E., out of her property at Jackson and Adams streets, valued at $2,500.

This indictment charges that the defendants told Mrs. Trowdell that they would give her a first mortgage to obtain purchase money of $2,500, which was due her, whereas it was in fact a second mortgage. The indictment alleges that the defendants foreclosed the mortgage ahead of Mrs. Trowdell, and thereby defrauded her.

The other indictment alleges that Cary, Phillips and Drennan defrauded L. J. Bentley, of Cascade road, out of $400 in construction of a house on a Boulevard Terrace lot.

'PHONY' PEACH DISEASE TO BE FOUGHT IN STATE

Department of Entomology
Will Cooperate With U. S.
Department in Work.

Steps toward eradication of the "phony" peach disease in Georgia will be taken by officials of the state department of entomology, working in cooperation with federal officials between March 15 and April 1, it was announced Tuesday by Manning S. Yeomans, state entomologist. A conference was held Tuesday by Mr. Yeomans and N. F. Kellerman, associate chief of the bureau of plant industry, U. S. department of agriculture.

The government will furnish $75,000 for the work to be done in Georgia alone, while $10,000 more will be used in scouting for the disease in the Carolinas and Alabama. The period to be covered by the program will be from July 1, this year, to July 1, 1930. Against the federal appropriation of $85,000 for the first year's work the Georgia department of agriculture will spend $25,000. Mr. Talmadge said.

Plans announced Tuesday included the establishment of a training ground for inspectors at Fort Valley. From 10 to 20 men will be trained specifically for locating the "phony" disease, with both government and state experts in charge of instruction.

Under the bill appropriating the money to be spent by the federal government, state and federal authorities must agree on whatever procedure is followed, it was explained by Mr. Yeomans.

The method of locating the disease, already settled upon as the only one feasible and certain, will be through a tree-to-tree inspection in every orchard in Georgia. Diseased trees will be spotted and condemned. Destruction of infected trees was said by Mr. Manning and Dr. Kellerman to be the only way of eradicating the disease.

Plans discussed Tuesday as being tentative will be submitted to the state board of entomology for its approval at its next meeting.

THE MORRIS PLAN

"Like the Bull in a China Shop"

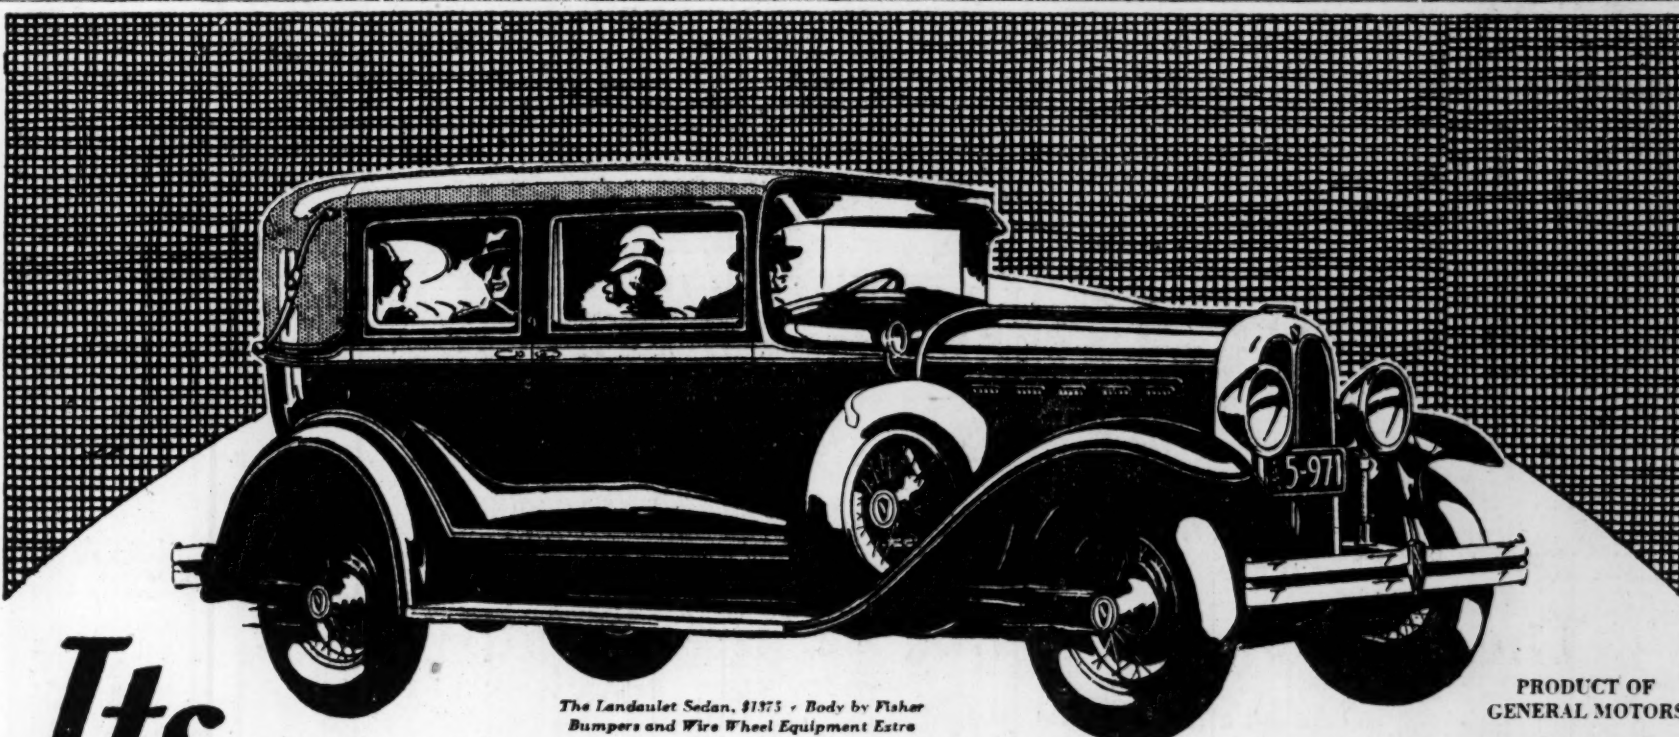

Keeping house is a hard job even at its best. There's so much for the modern housewife to do that even with all the wonderful housekeeping aids she must systematize her work in order to keep the home presentable. Aside from cleaning, dusting, cooking and planning, she thinks of decorative possibilities and smart arrangements that are possible by this change or by that.

The work she does is deserving of results that will receive highest commendation, but sadly enough she doesn't get the full reward unless the furniture and furnishings in the home will respond to her effort. Try as she may, she cannot overcome the hideousness of some old, out-of-date suite or obsolete piece, for it is as out of place and grotesque as "the bull in a china shop."

No home should tolerate such a handicap. Give it the benefit of knowledge and effort she expends. Make it a place of pride, satisfaction, beauty and comfort—BY REPLACING THE OLD FURNITURE WITH STYLES OF THE MODERN DAY.

Today and tomorrow, the last days of February, mark the close of the remarkable sale offerings in modern furniture styles at the many Atlanta furniture stores. Make it a point to visit them today and take advantage of the special prices.

Washington, D. C., February 26.—(Special.)—W. O. Foote, commercial printer and stationer and former president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, has been named district supervisor of Atlanta for the 1930 census, along with 14 other Georgians filling the 16 district posts, with exception of one, it was learned here today.

Selections have been made from recommendations of chambers of commerce in the cities which are to be headquarters of the various districts. The chambers of commerce are asked to recommend persons known to be familiar with conditions in their section of the state and capable of directing the work.

Only one woman was chosen among the Georgia supervisors. Miss Ruth Bembry, of Hawkinsville, deputy clerk of the Pulaski superior court, was chosen supervisor of the eleventh census district.

The bureau of census will make no official announcement of the supervisors until after the house of representatives has passed the bill authorizing the taking of the census. The senate has passed the bill, but the house probably will not act before the extra session in April.

insville is the headquarters, Miss Ruth Bembry, deputy clerk of the Pulaski county superior court and head of a number of civic and patriotic organizations.

FINED FIVE CENTS FOR HAVING PINT

New Orleans, February 26.—(AP)—A fine of five cents was imposed today by Federal Judge Wayne G. Borah, nephew of United States Senator Borah, of Idaho, against E. B. Jameson, for possession of liquor.

Jameson was caught in a raid with a half pint of whisky and had been in jail two weeks. Judge Borah said he felt Jameson had been punished sufficiently and asked if he could pay a small fine.
"I've got only ten cents in the world," the defendant replied.
"Then I'll fine you five cents," replied the judge.
Jameson gravely paid his fine and got a receipt.

city of Atlanta is entitled, I believe, to representation on the county board of commissioners," Dr. Cochran said in making his formal entry.

Acceded to Urgings.
"It has been with that purpose that I have decided to become a candidate for the vacant position. I have acceded to the wishes of a large number of persons who have urged me to make the race. If elected, I shall represent all districts. I believe in a business-like administration of county affairs and the economy, but I feel that the school teachers should have a living wage and better working conditions."

"I also believe that employees should have living wages for their labor from the highest offices to the lowest. I shall issue a fuller statement later."

Dr. Cochran is a councilman from the second ward for four years and a member of the aldermanic board for three. He served as mayor pro tem in 1925.

GEORGE INQUIRY BILL IS PASSED

occasion arose for such a course, it is asserted.
Senator Brookhart himself requested Senator George to sponsor the resolution authorizing the committee in its deliberations had come across evidence tending to show patronage scandals in filling other federal offices outside of the post service. The resolution by Senator Moses extending the life of the committee was also introduced at his instigation.

To Plan Activities.
Just what the immediate program of the committee should be, Brookhart was unable to say today. He added, however, that plans for future activities would be formulated at a meeting to be called at an early date.
At the time the George measure was offered the committee chairman stated that he intended to investigate conditions in Florida and Tennessee if and when the new authority was given. It also develops that his plans will include an investigation of federal judgeship appointments in Mississippi during recent years. So far as is known there is no disposition at the present time to go into this phase of the situation in Georgia and Florida soon.

Chairman Brookhart has held several conferences with President-elect Hoover recently and there are reasons to believe that the incoming executive has fully endorsed plans for a thorough inquiry. At any rate, the Iowa senator has stated that it would be his purpose to consider every phase of southern patronage distribution during the past four or five years and "leave no stone unturned" in an effort to root out undesirable elements in the republican organization of the various southern states.

His program is believed to be a part of the plan of Mr. Hoover for seeking to establish a militant republican party in the south and consolidate the gains registered in the last national election.

Some announcement is expected to be forthcoming from the Iowa senator regarding his plan for pressing the inquiry further.

Representative Celler, democrat, New York, again served notice that if the Jones bill passed the house he would introduce a resolution providing a death penalty for prohibition violators. He said "as long as the professional prohibitionists are drunk with power" the law might just as well be made as drastic as possible.

THOMPSON RETAINS CONTROL IN CHICAGO

Mayor "Big Bill" Loses S's
Aldermen But Holds Majority.

Chicago, February 26.—(United News.)—Mayor William Hale "Big Bill" Thompson, on the basis of incomplete returns in today's aldermanic election, tonight appeared to have retained his hold on the city council, although some of his floor leaders went down to defeat at the polls.

Six sitting aldermen of those running for reelection were defeated. Chief among the administration candidates who lost at the polls in the light vote contest Thompson and A. Grossman, a Thompson floor leader, and Titus Haffa, who recently was convicted of violating the prohibition act.

Alderman Oscar F. Nelson, chief of the Thompson floor leaders, apparently had been reelected on the basis of fairly complete returns tonight.

Thompson forces elected their candidates, William V. Pacelli in the "bloody twentieth" ward, Pacelli's opponent, A. J. Prignano, had reported to authorities that he had been threatened and that he and his family had fled from their home fearing a bombing. Alderman William Meyer voted cast-Thompson member in the council, apparently was victorious over Albert R. Brunker in a close contest in the eighth ward. The administration won a strong campaign against Meyer.

Stanley Adamkiewicz, Thompson councilman, was running in third place in the thirty-first ward, where another interesting race was staged although a run-off election may have to be held to decide the victor, Frank

E. Monkowski and Joseph Przbly were in the lead. Run-off elections may be necessary in some wards where there were three or more candidates and none had received a majority.

LEAGUE INDORSES SALE OF PORTION OF RAGSDALE PARK

Proposal of Councilman Tom C. Morris, of the fifth ward, to sell off a number of lots for residential purposes from the Ragdsdale park site in order to assist in paying for the tract for park purposes Tuesday had the approval of the Capital View Civic League.

John C. Mackey, president, announced that the body has endorsed a plan whereby 1,200 feet on Stewart avenue and running through to Sullivan road should be sold for such purposes. It is estimated that the sale would provide ample money to pay the $400,000 for the entire 430-acre tract and leave enough land to provide the largest single park in the city.

AD VALOREM TARIFF RATES ARE CONSIDERED

Changes in Method of Assessing Duties Given Attention.

Washington, February 26.—(AP)—Changes in the method of assessing ad valorem tariff rates on the value of imported articles on the ground that the foreign valuations now used frequently fluctuate widely and work to the detriment of American industries were suggested to the house ways and means committee today at hearings on the administration provisions of the law.

Use of American valuation at a rate based on iron and steel articles bearing on the value of the American Iron and Steel Institute. This method of valuation, proposed by the committee, would be based on the price at which the domestic article, comparable with the imported article, is sold at wholesale in this country.

Repealing the rejection of this method of valuation, Representative Buchanan, republican, New Jersey, said he had changed his opinion somewhat regarding its desirability since the present law was written, largely as a result of the fact that "we are getting better service from the tariff commission."

Mr. Buchanan declared that he believed few changes would be necessary in the metal schedule. The present law, he said, had worked out fairly well for the iron and steel interests. One weak spot in the law, however, as he saw it, was the flexible section permitting the president to raise or lower duties as much as 50 per cent after investigation and report by the tariff commission. He did not suggest how this should be changed.

CITY TAX INCREASE OF ONE-THIRD SEEN

on the rear of the site and expand this temporary building as the community grows. When it has grown to sufficient size to warrant a permanent building, they put up a high board fence in front of the temporary building and go to work on the new building. Then the day is finished, they move the children in, and tear away the temporary building, moving it to the site of some new community, with the theory always in mind that the property will not decrease in value as the city expands outward.

"In this way, the community does not have to suffer for five years with out any school facilities at all, as has been the case of Morningside, which community would certainly have grown more if school facilities could have been provided. By the way, this school was opened this morning. If the school board had had a site out there before the community had grown so much, we could have built a temporary building there and expanded as necessary without waiting for the permanent building to be completed."

Mr. Van Houten: "Do the St. Louis schools have the same system we do, or do they have seven years elementary school and four years high school. Do they have the junior highs?"

Mr. Spratt: "They have the K-6-3-3 plan, the same as ours."

Mr. Spratt: "They are separated from the city government?"

Mr. Ritchie: "Entirely separated. I think their tax levied by the board is collected by the city or county, one or the other."

Systems Merged.

Mr. Ritchie: I might say that Denver is in a system following a city and county school system—the city of Denver and the county of Denver. The county system was brought into the city and the city taken over by the county. The lines, however, were pretty close to each other. It is not a large county.

Mr. Spratt: "It would not help us any to take the county in. The first thing, we would have to do would be to advance the county teacher's salaries."

Mr. Ritchie: "And then if the city went to the county, the first thing would be to reduce the city teacher's salaries."

Mr. Spratt: "I don't think that could be done. The school board would not do that. Your idea is what I had in mind, that we have the problem outlined in such shape that it would be legible to the voter. Suggest to the voter several problems:

"1. The board entirely separated with tax of $1.

"2. General increase of taxes, with the schools and other departments remaining as they now are, getting their percentage of the increase."

Mr. Spratt: "Schools brought back under control of the city, and left with the $1.50 tax. I should hate to see that done. What do the people want? They are the ones to say. That is what we have to consider."

Mr. Ritchie: "Now Orleans has a tax for current revenue of 5-1-4 mills and a tax for capital outlay of 1-3-4 mills, 7 mills altogether, of course, three-fourths of their school population is in the public schools. The other fourth are in parochial schools. They also have a tremendous endowment to their schools from a Mr. McDonald."

Mr. Spratt: "It is a matter of impossibility to thrive and progress in the city of Atlanta on the present tax rate."

Mr. Spratt: "Do you think Atlanta could get along on $1 without the schools?"

Mr. Saunders: "We have $1.11 now for the city government. Of course, if we were relieved of the schools, textbooks, bonded indebtedness, etc., we might be able to get along with the $1."

Margin Is Needed.

Mr. Spratt: "We need a margin. I think we should have, say, 10 per cent as the average margin and use the other 10 cents only for emergencies, say, like this Mitchell street viaduct, for instance. Maybe some years we would have to levy our tax up to the maximum. Have an amount $1 may be as a maximum."

Mr. Ritchie: "Allow me to give you some figures for comparison. Of 17 cities the average per capita tax is $16.33, the highest is $61.93, while the per capita tax for Atlanta is $11.54."

Mr. Spratt: "We would like to see our tax kept as low as it could be because it always helps a city."

Mr. Ritchie: "St. Louis spends $81.38 per pupil, where we spend about $60. Of course their per capita wealth is larger."

Mr. Spratt: "I do not feel that the people would support the proposal if we went to them with request for a general tax increase without separating the schools from the city government."

Mr. Saunders: "They should be separated entirely."

Mr. Spratt: "We would come nearer putting it over that way. We could have very efficient board to administer the funds."

Mr. Gaines: "If you have a small board elected from the city at large, five members, you would have the people would be rather more sure of a chance to get the board down to a working basis without changing every year. Under the present arrangement with the mayor appointing one member, it is impossible for five new members to be on the board."

Mr. Spratt: "Perhaps we could have an appointed board."

Mr. Gaines: "The average capitalist does not see things from a school standpoint nor an educational standpoint."

Mr. Ritchie: "In all the comparisons, you will find that an average of four to six years is the term of service of a board member. This is necessary if you are going to have any continuity of policy. You have a chance to get the board down to a working basis without changing every year. Under the present arrangement with the mayor appointing one member, it is impossible for five new members to be on the board."

Mr. Spratt: "Our trouble is that about nine-tenths of the people do not come out and vote. We cannot get the majority of the people."

Manner of Nominating.

Mr. Ritchie: "The manner of nominating seems to be quite a popular question. Who can be nominated? Our studies which are available from the seventeen cities, we find that most of the people are nominated by petitions, and that it takes anywhere from 10 to 400 signatures to a petition. Suppose you had an outstanding man who was willing to run, then his friends would get together with a petition in his behalf and a group of 100 citizens behind him, pushing him forward in the public eye. If you did not have a party arrangement, you would have to get a group to support him."

Mr. Gaines: "You cannot have a very distinct school board issue when the mayor and aldermen and councilmen are being elected on the same ticket."

Mr. Ritchie: "I think you are right. The board members get lost in the shuffle."

Mr. Spratt: "But to have a special election, the people do not come out to vote."

Mr. Ritchie: "The question has been raised as to whether or not you could put over the election of the board members from the city at large."

Mr. Spratt: "I do not think we should go into the matter of selection of the board members. The question of how many of them should be elected, nor their terms, I would not want to recommend any plan of procedure in the selection or number of members. This committee is to determine the matter of how to raise the revenue."

Mr. Gaines: "I think the board members elected from the city at large would be the better way."

Mr. Spratt: "I am very strong for one man from each ward in the city. The school department is such a big department, and each ward should have one man and let them feel that they have a friend at court."

Mr. Gaines: "You take the county commission, they are elected from the county at large, and they manage all right."

Mr. Spratt: "They don't like the county commission system."

Mr. Ritchie: "The question has been raised as to whether or not you could put over the election of the board members from the city at large."

Mr. Spratt: "I do not think we should go into the matter of selection of the board members. SNOWFALL STOPS PRINCE'S PARADE TO FIRST LEVEE

London, February 26.—(AP)—A snowfall this morning brought disappointment to Londoners who had hoped to see the Prince of Wales drive in state from Buckingham palace to St. James' palace to hold the season's first levee on behalf of King George.

Because of the bad weather the state procession was cancelled and the prince merely walked over the short distance from his residence in York house wearing his brilliant scarlet uniform as colonel of the Welsh guard.

He was escorted by members of his staff and household officials in glittering uniforms.

The scene inside the palace was a brilliant one. There was a large attendance of privileged personages besides the diplomatic corps who were received by the prince in the throne room with all the customary ceremony surrounding the state function. It was the first time that the prince had ever acted for his father at a levee.

MRS. HARL WALL FUNERAL IS HELD AT LAWRENCEVILLE

Lawrenceville, Ga., February 26.—(Special).—Funeral services for Mrs. Harl Wall were held here at the First Baptist church Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Wall had been in an Atlanta hospital for the last three weeks and although her sickness had been considerable, her death came as a shock.

Mrs. Wall was married almost three years ago. She was formerly Miss Juliette Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Harris, of Lawrenceville. Mr. Harris has been a commissioner of Gwinnett county for a number of years.

Mrs. Wall graduated from Lawrenceville high school in the class of 1924, later taking a course at the University of Georgia. She was a member of her husband's church.

Besides her husband she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Harris; two brothers, Milton and Mercer Harris; two sisters, Miss Katharine Harris, of Lawrenceville, and Mrs. Odell Langford, of Dunwoody, besides a host of other relatives.

M. AND O. DERAILED NEAR MOBILE, SIX SLIGHTLY INJURED

Mobile, Ala., February 26.—(United News).—A southbound Mobile and Ohio passenger train was derailed at De Soto at 2 o'clock this afternoon. No one was seriously injured, according to officials of the road.

Two Pullmans left the track and overturned and two coaches were derailed, but remained upright. The train, known as the Gulf Coast Special, derailed Chicago and St. Louis Pullmans.

Elaborate precautions are underway at Macon for the inauguration of air mail service, this to take place at 6:40 o'clock (eastern time) Friday night, at which time a Pitcairn mail plane, flying from Miami, is scheduled to make its first official landing.

J. Ben Faulkner, local manager for Pitcairn, stated Tuesday night that he would send four planes to Macon about noon Friday to take part in the celebration which has been planned by the mobile Georgia city. Two of the ships will be Mailwings and will be in charge of Faulkner, himself, and Johnny Kyle, mail pilot, while the other two will be of the commercial type. Pilot Champ Taliaferro will be in charge of one of them, but the controls of the other ship will be in the hands of a flier yet undesignated. The Pitcairn planes probably will do some formation flying over Macon Friday afternoon and then, followed by the arrival of the mail ship, will act as its official escort into Candler field.

The Macon Chamber of Commerce has invited a number of army planes from Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala., and navy planes, from Florida, to participate in the day's events, and, altogether, the occasion is expected to be a gala one. Mr. Faulkner stated Tuesday that Sterling R. Smith, recently assistant field manager for Macon, at Spartanburg, S. C., had been named Macon field manager, and that the new official would take up his duties today. Mr. Faulkner also stated that while the new air mail ship, scheduled to leave Macon at 6:40 o'clock each day, will act as its official escort into Candler field.

Washington, February 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Edith Bolling Wilson, widow of President Woodrow Wilson, would be granted an annual pension of $5,000 for the remainder of her life under a bill passed today by the house and sent to the senate.

Her qualities as an impersonator were held in such high esteem by those who formed her circle of friends in Atlanta that an expansion of Betty Hamilton's dramatic ability was brought to the attention of Henry Grady, who engaged her to write exclusively for the Constitution. It was during her long period of service with The Constitution that Betty Hamilton attained fame as a "dramatic impersonator." Two Months' Search Ended As 11-Year-Old Boy Is Found; Alleged Abductor Arrested

Dickey Grant Located
When Harry Palmer,
With Whom Boy Left
Los Angeles, Is Found.

Roswell, N. M., February 26.—(AP)—Safe and happy, his face wreathed in smiles and his clothes in tatters, 11-year-old Richard (Dickey) Grant, of Los Angeles, today coasted on his roller skates into the arms of officers here, ending a two months' search for him, by air and by foot, over the wide expanse of the southwestern desert country.

The lad was located with the arrest of his alleged abductor, Harry Palmer, 40, with whom he left Los Angeles December 22.

Palmer was captured while painting a house near the dingy shack in which he lived with the boy here. Officers found Dickey happily skating on the pavement.

"I had a good time," the boy told officers. "Mr. Palmer was good to me."

Palmer, who used the name Nathan Eagle here, said the boy had not been deliberately kidnapped. His statement was borne out by Dickey. He said he took the boy away from Los Angeles because Dickey's parents had mistreated him. The boy had threatened to commit suicide if he was left with his parents, Palmer declared, and this was corroborated by Dickey.

Father Well-to-Do.

The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Grant, of Los Angeles. His father is a well-to-do contracting painter. Tomorrow Dickey and Palmer will start back to California, where Palmer may face a maximum penalty of fifty years' imprisonment, if convicted of kidnapping.

Palmer was traced through several western states through the postoffice department.

When officers approached Dickey and asked him who he was and why he was not in school, he replied:

"I am Robert Eagle."

When officers asked him if he was the son of William G. Grant, of Los Angeles, he replied: "Yes, my mother is dead, Robert Eagle."

Finally, under questioning, he admitted his identity.

"Have you any message to send to your mother and father?" the officers asked him.

He hung his head bashfully and did not reply.

"Don't you want to tell them that you want to come home?"

The boy fidgeted a while and then exclaimed, "I am sorry."

"I am sorry," he said, "and will be glad to get home to play with Barbara Jenn."

Baby Sister.

Barbara Jenn, he said, was his baby sister, 1 year old.

Dickey admitted that Palmer had planned with him for more than a week for their departure from Los Angeles.

"Did you want to go away so you could have a good time?" he was asked.

"No," Dickey replied.

"Then, why did you want to go?" the officers continued.

The boy hung his head and, with a look of embarrassment and tears coming to his eyes, said: "Because they were mean to me."

The boy was ruddy-faced, had long shaggy hair, wore a dirty blouse and overalls. He couldn't remember when his hair had been combed last.

Officers questioned Palmer about an attempted train wreck near San Bernardino, Calif., of which he is suspected, but he denied he had been anywhere near there.

The officers said they could not do much more until they returned to Los Angeles and could compare Palmer's fingerprints with those found at the scene of the attempted wreck.

5TH CIVIC COUNCIL

Nomination of officers for the fifth district civic council will take place at its regular meeting this morning in council chamber, at the city hall. Candidates selected by the nominating committee will be announced at that time and be voted on at a later meeting. The officers will be the first selected since the consolidation of the civic council and the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. J. E. Andrews, president, announced that she would not be a candidate for reelection. She recently was made chairman of the law observance committee of the Georgia Federation of Women's clubs, and said that her new position would occupy her entire time.

Bear is believed to have come here from California, while his wife has relatives in Cleveland, Boynton, Okla.; Nevada, Iowa and San Pedro, Calif.

ATLANTA IS BETTER
POLICED THAN EVER,
TATUM POINTS OUT

Delving into the early history of Atlanta, J. Henson Tatum, secretary to Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, today showed figures to prove that the city has better police protection than ever before.

According to Mr. Tatum's figures, Atlanta had a population in 1879 of 37,000, with 30 policemen to patrol the city, averaging one police officer to about every 1,233 inhabitants. Today there are more than 400 officers to patrol the metropolitan area of Atlanta, which population is estimated at 285,000, giving one police officer to every 710 inhabitants.

Dixie Manufacturers
Will Display Products
At Atlantic City Fair

Southern manufacturers with a variety of products unequalled perhaps by any other section in the country, will be represented at the American Fair to be held at Atlantic City August 3 to 25, and probably will become year-round exhibitors. It was announced Tuesday from the New York offices of the fair association.

Robert Everett, who married a daughter of the late United States Senator A. S. Clay, of Georgia, and who is well known in Atlanta, is in charge of the interests of the exhibitors. Mr. Everett has handled the work of several hundred of the country's largest companies in important expositions throughout the past ten years.

ATLANTA BANK BANDITS BELIEVED IN ALABAMA

Birmingham Detectives Think Burglaries There Perpetrated
by Same Band.

Birmingham, Ala., February 26.—(AP)—City detectives announced today that they are in possession of evidence which has led them to believe that several major burglaries here within the past week were staged by the same gang that used a machine gun in holding up a branch bank of the Citizens & Southern bank in Atlanta last Thursday. They also are believed to have obtained $9,000 in a recent robbery at New Orleans.

Burglaries here attributed to activities of the gang netted $5,700 from the safe at Everybody's market; $1,000 from the safe of a chain store and numerous holdups of pedestrians. The Atlanta bank loot netted $10,000.

Detectives also announced that they are searching for Johnny Martin, who is wanted in Texas City, Texas, on a bank robbery charge. Martin is believed to be in hiding here, the officers said. He is not suspected of complicity in the recent series of local crimes.

"Inasmuch as we are still without the slightest clue to the gang which raided the Tenth street branch of the Citizens & Southern bank last week, it would be impossible for me to attempt to definitely connect the members of the gang with the Birmingham or New Orleans robberies," Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole said Tuesday in discussing the report from Birmingham that the men in the robbery here may be the same who have raided a number of Birmingham business houses recently.

"The robbery of the Tenth street bank was evidently planned and executed in such a fashion as to make certain the raid was conducted by an experienced band of bandits," the chief said. "However, I do not know where they came from and consequently cannot connect them with other robberies."

Details of the final stage in development of the Julius Rosenwald fund system of circulating libraries for rural districts now are being worked out, it was learned here Tuesday when Edwin R. Embree, of Chicago, president of the $35,000,000 fund and noted sociologist, passed through Atlanta.

Mr. Embree, accompanied by Clark Foreman, well-known Atlantan, who is associate of the fund for the south, with headquarters in Nashville, and W. B. Harrell, of Chicago, secretary and controller of the fund, is touring a number of southern states to consummate the final stage, which consists principally of arranging to assist those state and county authorities who wish to avail themselves of the library plan.

In explaining the library plan of the Rosenwald fund, Mr. Embree pointed out that it had no connection with library building as is embodied in the Carnegie library work. "This phase of the fund is chiefly interested in bringing as much reading material to rural communities as is possible, or, rather, in aiding the community to do it for itself," President Embree stated.

"Ultra-Circulative" Plan.

"The system may be described as being ultra-circulative," Mr. Embree said. "Not only are the books circulated among readers, but the small libraries themselves are continually in circulation, so that in time they have the effect and value of large libraries. The plan is worked on a county basis, with a central library situated at the county seat. No special buildings for the books are needed, except, perhaps, at the county seat.

"Library stations, for which a small portion of a school room or even a garage will serve as an adequate building, are located throughout the county. About 25 books are placed in each of these stations and kept for distribution in that community for several weeks, after which they are replaced with an equal amount of different books from the county seat. This system of circulation is continued throughout the year by every station so that hundreds of books are eventually available in the smallest community. Special books can be ordered from the county seat."

This system is hard on the books, Mr. Embree stated, but it makes them serve the greatest value for the largest number of persons. It is the purpose of the fund to serve only as primer in getting systems of this kind started, the county authorities being expected to continue the work. "On our present tour we are contacting such authorities as are interested," Mr. Embree asserted. "The system probably will be put into operation first in some of the counties of Mississippi and eventually it is expected to be adopted, not only in the south but in all sections of the nation."

Mr. Embree, who until a year ago was vice president of the Rockefeller foundation, is guiding the activities of the fund in its wider scope, for which it was reorganized after serving during the past 10 years as an aid to negro education in the south, principally for erection of rural schools for negroes.

In addition to the library plan, which is occupying Mr. Embree and his associates on this tour, the enlarged fund plans to expend between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 a year on the following activities: continuing the rural negro education; other forms of negro education, especially aiding establishment of high schools in cities or industrial education and negro colleges to train teachers; aid negro health improvement undertakings, including hospitals and training of negro nurses; extension of services not confined to the negro, such as establishing medical service centers where the average man, unable to afford a private physician and unwilling to enter a hospital as a charity patient, can get adequate medical attention at minimum clinic charges.

President Embree explained the "Rosenwald fund was reorganized on

KIWANISANS TO WORK FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

Necessity of Improvement in Facilities Is Pointed Out at Meeting.

Advantages of education and failure of country children to become as well-equipped as their sisters and brothers of the city were pointed out by speakers Tuesday at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club, which voted its support to legislation which would improve the education facilities of the rural schools.

Tuesday's luncheon continued the question raised at the last meeting by Sam W. Small, of The Constitution editorial staff. Mr. Small challenged the Kiwanians to active work on behalf of the passing of legislation to improve the situation of rural education.

J. Walter Cooper, president, told members of the club that the subject introduced by Mr. Small was of such importance that it should be continued on the Tuesday program.

Professor William Shelton, of Emory university, told members of the club of the advantages of education and urged them to enlist the support of every Kiwanian club in the state to the movement.

R. M. Zukens, former president of the board of education of Atlanta said that citizens who had obtained their education in cities should be more active than ever in their efforts to provide equal advantages for pupils in country schools.

Dr. Luther Rice Christie said that the challenge of Mr. Small should not be confined merely to the local Kiwanian club but that each individual member should work for the introduction of suitable legislation to accomplish the desired end.

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

Once again a big heavyweight prize fight will go on the air. The Sharkey-Stribling battle at Miami Beach tonight will be broadcast by a coast-to-coast network of the National Broadcasting company. Atlanta will hear the blow-by-blow account over WSB.

For days, it appeared that the late Tex Rickard's published decision never again to permit the radioing of his big fight events, was to prevent the nation from listening in on the greatest sports feature of the year. Only Monday was the announcement made that a chain of the N. B. C. would carry the fight account. Tuesday afternoon it was definitely stated that WSB would bring the fight to this city and section.

The network will open up with Bill Munday, of WSB, and Graham McNamee, foremost N. B. C. announcer, at the ringside at 8:30 o'clock, Atlanta time. At 9 o'clock, WSB will join the chain. The main event is scheduled to start at this time.

Stations so far announced on the network are:

Beginning at 8:30, the following will cut in on a ringside account of the preliminaries: WJZ, WBZ, WBZA, WHAM, WYAT, WLW, KDKA, WJR, KYW, WRN, KWK, and WIOD.

Joining the chain at 9 o'clock will be these stations: WJAZ, WEEI, WVIC, WJAX, WTAG, WCH, WRC, WGY, WGR, WCAE, WTAM, WJW, WGN, WLIT, WOC, KSD, WOV, WDAF, KSTP, WTMM, WSM, WMC, WRT, WJAN, KPIX, WFAA, WOAI, KOA, KSL, KFO, KGO, KFI, WHQ, KGW, KOMO, WERC, WRVA, WKY, WBAF, and WHAS.

Michael Khariton, pianist, will be the featured artist in La Touraine concert to be broadcast through WSB and the N. B. C. system tonight at 6:30 o'clock.

The guest star will play one solo of his own composition, "Mithras," a tango, besides works of Mendelssohn, Chopin and Debussy.

Orchestral features of the program are the "Shadow Dance" of MacDowell in special arrangement for flute and clarinet, and another novelty, "The Music Box," by Lindow.

The complete program follows:

"The Magic Flute," will open the half-hour of concert music which the Kolster radio hour will present at 9 o'clock tonight over the Columbia system.

This overture is one of the greatest of its kind and contains one of the most famous figures in musical history. "The Magic Flute" was first produced in Vienna in 1791 with Mozart himself directing, and was brought to America in 1853.

In addition to this masterpiece, the Kolster orchestra will include on their program such numbers as Tchaikovsky's suite from "The Nutcracker," Opus 45, Debussy's "Reverie" and Schuman's "Slumber Song."

NATIONAL CREDIT HEAD HEARD BY LOCAL CLUB

Frank D. Rock Says Honest
Business Has the Criminal on the Run.

Frank D. Rock, credit executive of Armour and company, Denver, Col., and president of the National Association of Credit Men, was principal speaker Tuesday night at the monthly meeting of the Atlanta Association of Credit Men at the Atlanta Athletic club.

Mr. Rock told the meeting that for the first time in history the forces of honest business in the United States have the commercial criminal on the run.

"For many years, the business crook in this country enjoyed great prosperity and relative security. Burglars, holdup men and hijackers got the headlines, while their hand brothers who engaged in business frauds got the cash. In 1925 when business leaders raised a credit protection fund and put an efficient force of credit investigators in the field, the annual fraud loss was estimated at $500,000,000.

"Prison sentences for these business crooks began immediately to cut down fraud losses. During the first year of the credit protection movement, 74 crooks were put behind bars. The second year convictions rose to 177 and the third year there were 231 convictions."

E. Paul Phillips, of New York, manager of the eastern division of the credit association, also spoke at the meeting on the service arm of the association. An entertainment program also was presented.

'Restorer' Works Modern Miracle On Old Painting

BY RALPH T. JONES.

A hundred years ago, or so, an artist painted a picture of an English barnyard. It is a picture of perfect peace.

The painting hung in an English house for almost a century. About three years ago it was brought to America, and to Atlanta. It has hung in an Atlanta home since. Darkened and dimmed by age, the beauty of coloring yet shone through its murky surface and visitors to the home remarked on the apparent loveliness of the work, despite its poor condition.

On Sunday last another visitor to Atlanta, Professor Adolf Werbik, of San Francisco and Vienna, was a guest in this same Atlanta home. He saw the picture and admired it. His admiration meant a lot. For art is his life work. He is a famous critic of paintings.

And he is, likewise, one of the greatest of living "restorers" of old oil paintings. He has won international fame for his work with many of the most valuable pictures of the world.

He offered to restore the old painting of the English barnyard. In fact, he insisted on doing it. So he carefully removed the ancient canvas from its frame and lovingly carried it to his rooms at the Biltmore. That was on Sunday.

Tuesday afternoon his work of restoration was done. And the picture is like a new thing. The beauty of coloring, the graceful lacy tracing of the trees; the deep green shadows of the opened barn doors; the tired horse and laborer, back after a day's toil in the fields, all are there again. It is truly a miracle of renewed life to a splendid painting. Just how it is done is Professor Werbik's secret.

LIGHTNING STRIKES TWO ALABAMANS; ONE DEAD, ONE HURT

Troy, Ala., February 26.—(AP)—Emmett Slaughter, 19, was killed instantly and Mrs. Sam Reeves badly shocked here today when struck by lightning during an electrical storm. Rain, which accompanied the storm, caused heavy property loss, about 200 feet of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad being washed out between Troy and Montgomery. Traffic was suspended for several hours over the line. Slaughter was en route to school when struck by the bolt. Mrs. Reeves was injured when lightning struck her home.

WE BEGAN TO PUT THE BOXES AND CHAIRS AROUND THE TABLE SO WE COULD HOLD OUR MEETING TODAY. BEFORE WE STARTED THE SKINNY GUY STUCK HIS HEAD IN THE WINDOW, AND ASKED US FOR HELP.

ALL US FELLAS JUMPED OUT THE DOOR WHEN SKINNY MENTIONED THE PELHAMS. MAKES NO DIFFERENCE WHAT ANY OF US GOT AGAINST SKINNY, WHEN THOSE PELHAMS PLAY A DIRTY TRICK, WE GO RIGHT AFTER EM.

BUT THE PELHAMS HAD A GOOD START. WHEN WE GOT TO THE TREE SKINNY HAD HIS HOUSE IN, THERE WERE ONLY A FEW BOARDS LEFT—THOSE PELHAMS TOOK EVERYTHING, EVEN POTS AND PANS.

THEY ROWED OVER TO THEIR SIDE IN THEIR FLATBOATS. WE ALL FELT SORRY FOR THE SKINNY GUY, EVEN JERRY KIND'A LOOKED AT HIM SORRY LIKE, AND HE SAID, 'NOW WHAT YOU GONNA DO, SKINNY?'

LINK JUST SHOOK HIS HEAD AND GRINNED. OF COURSE WE WOULDN'T LET HIM SLEEP UNDER THE TREES, WE SAID WE WOULD LET HIM SLEEP IN OUR OLD STRANDED HOUSE-BOAT, WHICH WE DID.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

AN UNDERGROUND CHASE.
BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Respect the rights of other folk
And in their business never poke.

—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Danny Meadow Mouse was deeper down in the ground than he realized. He was quite below the frost line.

Jack Frost couldn't possibly get down there. He was running along through the tunnels of Miner the Mole.

Danny had not known before this, that Miner ever went so deep. Miner's tunnels with which Danny had been previously acquainted had all been just under the surface. In fact, they were so near the surface that Miner pushed the ground up as he dug his way along.

So Danny had been used to running along right in the grass roots, as it were. But these little tunnels that he was exploring now were way, way down deep.

If Danny had not been so sure that Miner must be somewhere asleep for the winter he wouldn't have been quite so bold. It did trouble him a little that he kept getting the smell of Mole, and that the smell seemed fairly fresh. He couldn't understand this. He thought it must be that he was near Miner's bedroom. So he moved very cautiously. Still, he didn't find that bedroom.

And then suddenly his ears caught a sound ahead of him. Some one was coming along the very tunnel he was in. Danny's little heart seemed to skip a beat. He turned around, for there was room in that tunnel for him to turn, and he started back. He could hear some one coming behind him.

"It's Miner," thought Danny. "It can't be anybody else. He must have waked up. My, I wish I could get out of here! I don't like being so far down in the ground."

It was Miner who was coming after Danny. Danny was mistaken in thinking that Miner had been asleep. Miner the Mole was not one of the sleepers.

He simply had carried his tunnels down deeper, so as to be below the frost. The earthworms had gone way down there so as to get below frost, and it was in pursuit of these, on which he lived, that Miner had driven his tunnels this way and that so far underground.

If Danny had looked back and seen anything, he would have been a surprised Meadow Mouse. He would have found Miner the Mole running back toward after him. Yes, sir, that is what he would have found. You see, that tunnel wasn't big enough for Miner to turn around in, so the only thing he could do was to back up until he reached a place where he could turn around. And Miner can back surprisingly fast in one of those tunnels of his. Have you ever seen an electric engine? You know it runs either way. It looks alike at both ends, but he runs either way. That is why that wonderful thick fur of his is so different from the fur of most other animals. You know you can smooth it either way. That is to say, it will lie down either way, or he couldn't back up in such a hurry, for it would be most uncomfortable for him to smooth it the wrong way. But as long as there isn't any wrong way, he is all right.

It wasn't until he reached a place where another tunnel branched off that Miner had a chance to turn.

Then he started after Danny head first, instead of tail first.

and the worst of it was that he wasn't sure just where he was going. The one thing he wanted was to get back to the surface, but he was not well enough acquainted with those deep tunnels to be sure that he was taking the right one.

Miss Eichberg Weds Mr. Van Staveren At Standard Club

The Standard club on Washington street furnished a lovely setting for the marriage of Miss Josephine Eichberg to Ludo Van Staveren, Jr., which was quietly solemnized at high noon yesterday. The marriage service, which was witnessed by a small group of relatives and close friends, was read by Dr. David Marx.

The marriage vows were taken before an improvised altar of palms and ferns, forming a massive background of greenery for tall pedestals baskets of white flowers. The bride wore a seven-branched cathedral candelabra with white burning tapers. Mrs. Henry P. Eichberg, mother of the bride, was her only attendant and wore a gown of tan crepe, fashioned along straight lines, the skirt modestly draped on the left side. Her hat was a small model to match, and she wore a corsage of Ophelia roses. Ludo Van Staveren acted as his son's best man.

The lovely young bride was gown-d for the occasion in a handsome ensemble costume of green crepe, fashioned with a beige crepe blouse and worn with a small green hat. A shoulder corsage of green orchids and valley lilies completed the chic ensemble.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, the table being decorated with quantities of spring flowers.

During the day Mr. Van Staveren and his bride left for a motor trip and upon their return will take possession of their apartment at 2840 Peachtree road. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eichberg, prominent citizens of Atlanta, who reside on Piedmont avenue. Mrs. Eichberg was formerly Miss Minnie Gibbon of Macon, Ga., and Montgomery, Ala. Mr. Eichberg's family has resided in Atlanta for a number of years.

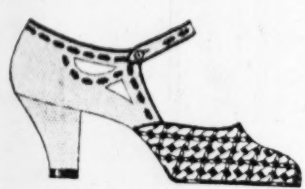

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludo Van Staveren, Sr. Mrs. Van Staveren having been formerly Miss Addie Kappan, a descendant of a prominent South Carolina family.

Miss Smith Weds Billy S. Jones.

The marriage of Miss Lucile Smith to Billy S. Jones was solemnized Friday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bishman, on North Boulevard. Dr. Taylor, pastor of Westminster church, performed the ceremony. Afterward the bride and groom left for a wedding journey to Florida, and upon their return will make their home in Atlanta.

Ole Miss, 1928 Conference Champion, Arrives For Tourney

Bulldog Nine Opens Season On March 22

Clemson First Opponent of Red and Black; 7 Letter Men Return to Team.

BY BOB SHERROD.

Athens, Ga., February 26.—Georgia will open her baseball season in Athens on March 22 and 23 with games with Clemson, it was learned tonight from Dr. S. V. Sanford. The faculty advisor of Red and Black athletics announced that the schedule was not quite complete and was not yet ready for release. He does not think that any games will be scheduled before the Clemson clashes.

Seven letter men of the 13 who received them last spring, have returned, and are practicing daily on the fresh green infield, that is, when weather permits. The veterans are: Mordock and Parks, pitchers; Rothstein, Johnson and Captain-elect Chaffin, infielders; and Jacobson and Steele, outfielders. The six who graduated were: Keating, catcher; Walker and Stewart, pitchers; Freeman, second baseman; Shiver and Nash, outfielders.

Light workouts have been held for the past few days when weather permitted, with about 25 candidates out for the trials. With the schedule starting in less than a month, Coach Bill White has quite a bit of work to put in and he says he will waste no time in doing it. Infield and batting practice have constituted the workouts for a couple of days while the batterymen have been warming up for some time.

Reserves Show Promise.
Aside from the old men who returned a few of last year's reserves show promise, especially Gorman, catcher; Herndon, outfielder; and DuPont, who is likely to replace Rush Freeman at second base.

Several freshmen on last year's nine are intent on living up to expectations, among them Frye and Carthager, two pitchers, one a right-hander and the other a southpaw; Tate and Bishop, catchers; Sanford, outfielder; Day and Hancock, infielders; not to mention several others.

Last season was an excellent one for Bill White's baseball team but when the final statistics were compiled it was found that Auburn was half a game ahead, thus winning the conference championship.

It all came about by Georgia and Tech splitting the last two games and Tech on the conference schedule. If Tech had won both games, the Jackets would have been champions, if Georgia had won both the Bulldogs would have copied a flag. As it was, Auburn won.

McLarnin and Glick Promise Kayo Victories
New York, February 26.—(United News.)—The Friday battle between Jimmy McLarnin and Joe Glick will never last 10 rounds if both fighters remember their pre-fight promises of misleading defensive tactics in favor of open battling, early in the fight.

In their last Garden bout McLarnin outpointed Glick largely because the latter resorted to elaborate defensive tactics, allowing Jimmy to become the aggressor.

Both fighters can hit and chances that the bout will go the limit are small.

Miami Fight Detail At Atlanta Theater
Announcement of Ed Douglas' entrance into the field of fight promotion here will be officially made tonight at the Atlanta theater, where Douglas will offer a blow-by-blow detail of the Stribling-Sharkey battle at Miami Beach.

Douglas also stated that a radio confession would be installed, meaning that one of the most complete descriptions of the Miami fight will be in order.

The promoter has secured a leased wire direct from the ringside, and the details will be announced as they come in by Fat Elrod, popular Atlanta announcer. Other ringside features also will be included.

Dundee-Kobriset Bout Appears Sure

Buenos Aires, February 26.—(United News.)—Negotiations to bring Joe Dundee, world's welterweight champion, to Buenos Aires for a title match with the South American champion, Kobriset, are progressing. It is said that the purse and other conditions have been accepted by both boxers.

Dundee has been asked to arrive in Buenos Aires not later than April 4, as after that date it is difficult to stage outdoor matches in the Argentine capital and the indoor clubs are of small capacity.

Crowley Through As a Coach

Jimmy Crowley is through coaching, so he informed a representative of The Constitution at Athens. The former Notre Dame star who has been backfield coach at Georgia for a number of years recently resigned that position, which is to be filled by Frank Thomas, formerly at the University of Chattanooga. Rumors were numerous that Crowley had made coaching connections elsewhere but he said that he was going to work with the Coca-Cola company of Atlanta. He will leave shortly for the east where he is to spend a month.

Major Clubs Start Action In Southland

Cochrane Reaches Camp; Giants Play Practice Game at San Antonio.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Early birds in the annual major league spring training camp migration took advantage of warming rays of a friendly sun today as they shook out the winter's kinks and later applied "carnies" and other panaceas to stiff muscles.

While some "spring training specials" were still being made up in snow-blanketed northern cities, John McGraw's Giants at San Antonio, Texas, cavorted through several innings of workouts, with Ogden pitching three hitless innings in a game that saw the first team trim the Yankees, 5 to 3.

Ogden and Stowers worked in the box for the regulars while Pete Johnson opposed them. Veltman's trip was the only real hit the Yankees collected. Ogden also smashed out a couple of hits while Marshall and Henry each got three safeties.

Cochrane Arrives.
Joy was unconfined at Fort Myers, Fla., when Mickey Cochrane, star catcher, joined Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics. Mickey was in uniform and working out with the rest of the gang in jig time after his train pulled in.

"There is nothing for me to say except that I am camp perfectly happy and in good condition," Mickey told newspapermen who sought to question him about his salary dispute which was settled in Philadelphia. Twelve of the A's will not be in uniform tomorrow and Thursday, as they have been excused to attend the Sharkey-Stribling fight in Miami Beach.

Jan Howley's St. Louis Browns arrived at West Palm Beach and took a light workout to start their preparations. Manager Howley ordered his squad, composed mostly of battery-men, to hold their workout to a few jugs around the inside of the park after the usual fitting of uniforms which in itself is somewhat of a workout sometimes, when shirt and pants don't match, or the first dive into the bag brings out one too large or too small.

Pass Out Linament.
Howley, L. P. McElroy, vice president of the club, Coaches Bill Phillips, Jimmy Austin and Otto Williams watched the parade around the field from the stands, then the latter three joined Trainer Tommy Brannell in passing out linament.

Jack Hendricks and 23 of the squad from which he hopes to pick a pennant winning Cincinnati National team were assembled in Orlando during the day and looked over Tinker field on which they will take their first workout tomorrow.

Several of the Reds have been here getting tuned up by playing golf. In other sections, early arrivals have begun their workouts in advance of the main group of the squad, but by the end of the week nearly every major league team that trains in Florida or along the Gulf of Mexico will be in camp and attending to the serious business of making good on the 16 potential "pennant winners."

Koenig Switches Post To Third Base.

St. Petersburg, Fla., February 26.—(United News.)—Mark Koenig, the Yankee shortstop, has evidently decided to be a third baseman this year. He has not worked out at short since he has been here and said today that he would much rather play third than short. The job is open, so he may get it.

Koenig and Gene Robertson alternated at third again today, and Leo Durocher and Lyn Lary divided the job at short.

Morning and afternoon practice sessions went into vogue today and will continue until the exhibition games begin. Cedric Durst, a utility outfielder, reported for practice. Floyd Van Pelt, the pitcher they could not find, reported without warning tonight. Bill Dickey, a catcher, is on

Jacket Cage Squad Renews Drills Today

Golden Out of Hospital and May See Action If Tech Beats Clemson.

BY HERB CLARK.

Having had a two-day layoff, the Yellow Jacket cagers will settle down to work again this evening at the gym at the Flats in preparation for their final test, the southern conference tournament, which will see the Jackets started off on their road to an undetermined destination at 9 o'clock Friday night.

Roy Mundorf, the Jacket mentor, faces the unpleasant task of bringing his charges to a peak for the grind. The Tech quintet got way, way off its feed in the closing moments of the recent battle in Athens, and Mundorf will be forced to jerk the Jackets out of their slump and have them playing a little real basketball before the starting whistle sounds Friday night.

Sid Goldin, guarding ace, who has been out of the last few games with leg injuries, was released from the hospital recently, and Mundorf, hoping against hope, stated that Goldin may possibly see action during the course of the tourney, provided the Jackets survive the first round game in which the Clemson Tigers will furnish the opposition.

The Tigers took the court early in the season with the Jackets, and were subdued, but by no means safe margin, and it is by no means generally accepted that the Jackets will be returned victorious in this second encounter.

The tournament officials have set a ten-man limit for the teams entering this year, and Mundorf, with 12 men who have seen service in previous frays, will be forced to lose two of these players. Wages, Brooke, Maree, Vincent and Goldin, guards; Johnson and Coker, centers, and Williamson, Williamson, Lewis, Warner and Hoek, forwards, comprise the list at present. Goldin may not be considered, but it is probable that, should his condition seem to indicate that he might be able to get into the fray, even if in only one game, his name will be turned in as a possible on the Jacket list.

PRESBYTERIAN QUINTET WINS OVER TRIPLE E

Unable to overcome an early lead, though it was of only one point, Triple E of the National league lost to the Presbyterian quintet of the American league in the first S. S. A. championship series game.

Tuesday night at the Tech court, it was won with a low score of 10 to 6. Triple E made only two field goals though missing enough to win any ordinary game. However, on the other hand the First players were missing easy shots and had but three field goals in the end.

To the close guarding of both aggregations goes the reason for the low scoring honors, having 4. Ferguson made 3 for the Triple E team.

In a preliminary game, Morning-side trailed the first half by 2-0-5, but came back thundering to a 19-16 victory over Lutheran. Roberts, of the winners, and Keener, of Lutheran, gathered in 3 points apiece to tie for scoring honors.

HAWK-EYE IN SPORTS

Hordes of Georgians.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., February 26.—(Special.)—From the appearance of the streets and beaches of the magic city today there are very few residents of Atlanta left in that city. Like the mythical piper, William Lawrence Stribling is luring his followers to the land of perpetual sunshine but unlike the mythical piper, Strib is not leading them into the sea. They need no leading.

It must be most satisfying to W. L. to see the hordes of Georgians down here to see him beat the bad name out of the bad sailor from Boston. His friends do believe in him and for that Strib should be and is thankful.

THOSE OF HIS FRIENDS who cannot make the trip to Miami are sending the best wishes by wire. This fact is evidenced by more than 100 telegrams received in the past 24 hours from men, women, children, civic clubs and business houses wishing Georgia's champion luck and expressing confidence.

To reproduce all of these messages would take more time and space than we have at our command but here are a few typical ones:

"We wish you the best of luck and remember we are behind you."—Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Central of Georgia railway.

"Macon and the south are with you. Do your stuff."—S. Saloon and Sons, Macon.

"Give him —, W. L. Get the jack and hurry back."—Palm barber shop, Macon.

"Our club, 40 strong, representing 2,500 Viennians, pulling for you to win Wednesday night."—Vienna Kiwanis club.

"Bring home the bacon, Strib. We're strong for you."—Peacock Central Pharmacy gang, Macon.

"Sending congratulations now. Know you will win."—Reis & Armstrong, Macon.

"We expect you to hit Sharkey everywhere but on the tongue and since he talks so much you might try even that."—Hartselle, Ala., gang.

"Here's hoping you put the Boston boy to sleep in the first round."—M. W. Venable, Jr., Marietta.

"Having seen you and Sharkey both fight I pick you to win. You can lick him. I consider you the best physical specimen in the U. S. A."—W. L. Jackson, M. D., High Point, N. C.

AND SO ON. We might go on quoting these messages of confidence and good wishes until far, far into the night but there is no need of that.

These samples prove that the solid south is still solid behind Mr. William Lawrence Stribling, Jr. It would be a crying shame if Strib were to lose after all this.

Big Money Affair.
THE FOLKS THAT HANDLE the money in this coming battle have reached the point where they are willing to come across with real figures. William Harrison Dempsey and his side announced today that the Madison Square Garden corporation has just a few dollars less than $325,000 on deposit in a local bank and that this amount more than assures the financial success of the venture. They also announced something bordering upon glee that the total gate should be from $375,000 to $400,000, which will mean a net profit of from $75,000 to $100,000.

On the face of it, this statement may not seem startling but in truth it is. It must be remembered that this fight is after all just a scrap between two contenders for the heavyweight title. That it will really prove nothing except that either Jack Sharkey or W. L. Stribling is the best man at this particular time.

IT WILL ALSO PROVE that as a promoter William Harrison Dempsey is as great a champion as he was in the ring, or more so. That, for sooth, is more than half the reason for the success of the scramble. Dempsey's personality can be seen protruding from every corner of this situation.

All that remains now to set Jack Dempsey up as a great promoter is for the customers to see a great fight tomorrow night. In this particular phase of the situation Mr. Dempsey has nothing at all to say. Perhaps that is unfortunate.

Workout Held By Mississippi Five at A.A.C.

Title Holders Will Face Rough Going in Defense of Their Cage Laurels.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

First in town for the conference tournament was Ole Miss, unexpected champion last year. The boys from Oxford, eight of them, accompanied by their genial and round coach, Homer Hazel, rolled into the city Tuesday afternoon from Louisville, Ky., and soon were on the court at the Athletic club working hard for the defense of their title, which begins Friday afternoon.

It is a bit early for teams to arrive, but as Coach Hazel explained, they had just finished a trip to Nashville and Louisville and had the Mississippi returned home they would have had only one day there, so he thought it best to head for Atlanta, where much valuable practice could be had.

The champions had rather a rocky time of it this season, having won five games and lost four. But during the past week they seem to have gotten into their stride and are moving along smoothly, topping Vandy's quint the other night in a handy manner.

Cary and Ary Back.
The team is just blessed with those twins Cary and Ary Phillips. Cary a forward and hunter, Ary a guard and blond. They were here last year and while they didn't win the tournament wasn't much. And there are two more regulars who, from all we have gathered, have been mainstays this season. One is big DeWitt Laird, captain and guard. Laird last winter worked like a Trojan beneath his own goal and saved many a point for his side. The other is Norm Selby, who ranges up and down the court with Cary Phillips.

Only one loss was suffered by Hazel's quint last season, that in the passing of Lila Lee, elongated center, by means of graduation. His place has been taken by Mabry, a lad who seems to be handling the pivot position very well.

Whether the Mississippians are going to break up the tournament again is as doubtful as a "sure thing" coming first under the wire. As we have told you time and again, this tournament this year has too many good teams and too many good players to be won by one team.

The boys had taken Auburn for a long and disastrous ride. The boys might repeat this year, but if they do, it'll take a long hard battle. Ole Miss seems to represent the best from the western part of the conference and will give some team trouble before it's put out.

Annual Guessing.
The guessing as to who will win the tournament has been going on for a couple of weeks but one brave person has put his down in black and white and forwarded it to this department. He signed himself as "A Guessee," and has made a very good guess.

He sees W. L. defeating L. S. U. in the first round, Ole Miss winning from Maryland, Tennessee taking N. C. State to ride and Tech disposing of Clemson in the upper bracket. In the lower Georgia will down Auburn, Tulane will win from Kentucky, Duke from Alabama and the Tarheels from Mississippi A. & M. In the second round W. L. and Tech will go into the semifinals from the upper bracket and Duke and Georgia from the lower. Then in the final Tech and Duke will play for the title with Tech coming out on top.

We would feel that the guess is about as good as any that could be made, although the Millionaire Baby—Duke—is certainly being pushed. It may happen that way, stranger things having happened. There is some talk going around that Goldin is out of the hospital and will be playing guard for Tech when the tournament opens.

But it is going to be hard to dispose of Georgia and the Tarheels so early and lots of others. It's going to be a tough tournament and no mistake.

Stribling Has Advantage Over Sharkey in Speed and Strength

Aces of "400" And Gang King Will See Bout

BY WALTER TRUMBULL.
(Copyright, 1929, by the South American Newspaper Alliance.)

Miami Beach, Fla., February 26.—The pine arena in Flamingo park stands waiting in the sunshine for the Stribling-Sharkey bout.

Hotel walls, even as far away as Coral Gables and Hollywood, bulge a little from the tightly packed visitors within. Residents near at hand are "sleeping" their friends on couches and cots. Private cars stand on the sidewalks of the Miami stations and those who brought their own are living in them. Yachts, with owners and guests, are lying at the piers.

No, all of this crowd will attend the fight. Some can't obtain seats they considered suitable. Others have merely been attracted by what they consider a big show. They are here to see the senators, the governors, the millionaires, the Palm Beach suits and Paris gowns. They will see plenty of them.

Familiar Names.

The names of those around the ring will be as familiar as the type in which they will be printed. Leaders of society and One-Eyed Connolly; leaders of temperance and Scarface Al Capone; leaders of conservative finance and Nick the Greek. They will all be there.

If the New York board of estimate wishes to find Jimmy Walker, the head usher can designate his whereabouts. If the democratic party is looking for Al Smith, it is rumored, that the former presidential candidate will see his first big bout in several years.

Here in Miami Beach is an appointment that some of the busiest of the nation will keep.

The weather man has promised that the day and evening will be fair and warm. It is to be hoped that he knows his stuff. Only a severe and lasting storm can postpone the bout. In that case it will be held the following night.

Sharkey and Stribling report themselves in fine condition and it appears to be a true report, although many thought that Sharkey looked a bit fagged as he went through his last light exercise at the dog track.

Sharkey Is Tired.

Among these was Paulino Uzcudun. "I do not like the appearance of Sharkey," said Paulino. "He is tired—he is tired. When first he starts to punch he is up to his eyes in his toes, but in a few moments he is back on his heels and his knees sag. I think he is very tired indeed."

Stribling, an handsome, dark-haired youth as any hero of romance, is apparently supremely confident. Sharkey was his choice of an opponent over Paulino. He thinks, and his family think, that Sharkey is the type that he can beat.

Triplex Arrives At Daytona Beach

Daytona Beach, Fla., February 26. (AP)—Two powerful speed cars—the American triplex and the other England's foremost contender—were here tonight awaiting final adjustment by their drivers, who will send them roaring over the hard beach course soon in quest of a new world's straightaway record.

While Major H. O. D. Segrave, British ace, was tuning up his monster Golden Arrow racer for the trials, a freight train pulled into a siding today with the 36-cylinder record-holding Triplex, owned by J. M. White, Philadelphia manufacturer and sportsman.

White arrived a short time later by motor from the east, accompanied by his wife and Ralph Fleming, a mechanic.

The Philadelphia sportsman said the Triplex would be unloaded tomorrow and placed in a garage where mechanics will give it a thorough overhauling before the opening of the third annual international speed classic here on March 6.

Strib Gives Away Ten Pounds

Miami Beach, Fla., February 26.—Jack Sharkey will have an advantage of probably ten pounds for his fight tomorrow night. Official measurements announced today for the boxers follow:

Stribling		Sharkey
Weight	191	201	181
Age	26	24	24
Height	5' 11"	5' 11"	5' 11"
Reach	72	72	72
Chest	42	42	42
Chest expanded	46	46	46
Waist	34	34	34
Thigh	23 1/2	23 1/2	23 1/2
Biceps	13 1/2	13 1/2	13 1/2
Wrist	15 1/2	15 1/2	15 1/2
Neck	15 1/2	15 1/2	15 1/2
Calf	13 1/2	13 1/2	13 1/2
Ankle	8 1/2	8 1/2	8 1/2
Forearm	13	12	12

sumption may be erroneous but at least there is a basis to work on. Let's assume, then, that both fighters will fight a good battle. That is, that both fighters will enter the ring with the intention of carrying the fight to the other and winning by that method.

Stribling Has Advantage

In this case what are the advantages? Stribling. Because the Georgia boy has all the punching power in both hands that Jack Sharkey has and he has the additional gift of speed and superior defensive ability. The Lithuanian will enter the ring with a weight advantage of at least 10 pounds and perhaps a bit more. Stribling's terrific strength above his waist will offset this advantage to a great extent. If Sharkey chooses to take advantage of his superior weight by inflicting he will find the tremendous power that W. L. carries in those arms. If it were possible to bisect the fighters at weighing time it would be found that nearly all of the Terrible Tar's advantage in weight lies below the waist. He will never weaken W. L. by wrestling tactics.

Strib Is Hard to Hit

If you take the opposite stand and assume that this is to be a battle of boxers—at long range—Stribling has every material advantage. But that alternative is so immensely undesirable that one does not even care to discuss it. One thing is certain, however—Stribling will have to win by a score of miles to get a decision over the Georgia boy. Sharkey has the other northern referee in the ring. One other certainty is apparent in this analysis. Stribling has always been hard to hit. In fact, he has really been hit but few times in his many fights. Sharkey has been hit with everything but the water bucket by nearly everyone he ever fought. He has, on the other hand, proved that he can take punishment, and Stribling has yet to prove that. Except for the Berlenbach fight, he was never seriously hurt by an opponent, and that time he took all the great "Oom Paul" could give for 15 rounds and was still standing at the final bell.

Pick Your Winner

There you have a condensed discussion of the affair. From that you may pick your winner. Our pick has already been made and we still stick to that pick. We look for Stribling to win by a good margin or perhaps by a knockout.

Whatever else may happen must happen on the fields of battle, for both scrappers have definitely ended training. Tuesday W. L. did nothing but go to town in the afternoon for a little while. He did not even do any fighting for a short workout. He is trying to store up energy by complete rest and recreation. The Georgia boy, on the other hand, is suffering under a severe mental strain for the past few days trying to rid himself of the effects of that back injury he sustained in punching the big O. K.

Injury Is O. K.

He is not suffering any pain from the dislocated rib and the doctor attending him declares that the injury will have no effect on his performance tomorrow night. That remains to be seen.

The Lithuanian chose to work a couple of rounds with the skipping rope this afternoon and a couple of rounds with the heavy bag, but he didn't do any boxing, and tomorrow he will do nothing but travel to the Miami Jockey club, where both fighters will weigh in at 12 o'clock. From that moment until the time of the fight all hands, including the following of the two camps, who have risked their money on the outcome will be sitting on a sewing box full of needles. The uncertainty of the situation and its great importance to the future of the sport makes this fight as really big as any of the championship battles of the past.

The Magic City is thinking, talking and sleeping tight and will be untill tomorrow night at about 11 o'clock, when the story is told in full.

Women Swimmers To Clash Tonight

Chicago, February 26.—(AP)—Swimming records for women are being broken this week as Olympic champions and near champions battle for National A. A. U. championships at the Lake Shore Athletic club. The four-day national meet opens tomorrow.

The New York Women's Swimming association, heretofore the controlling team in women's tank events, will find its supremacy challenged by the Illinois Women's Athletic Club of Chicago. Both teams will enter the meet minus one of their stars.

Helen Meany has been declared ineligible to compete for the New York club, while Ethel Lackie, of the Illinois organization, has recently turned professional.

The meet starts with the 330-yard medley and the 100-yard free style on the opening night. From two to three events will be held each night.

Strib Faster, Better Boxer, Declares Rice

Close Decision With No Knockout Foreseen by Expert; Jack Clever Man.

BY GRANTLAND RICE.

Miami Beach, Fla., February 26.—(Special.)—They are coming in by (tri-motor) airplane and a single motor Georgia jule. In between these two forms of transportation headed for Miami Beach and the Sharkey-Stribling fight tomorrow night there are the yachts of millionaires and special trains from east, west and south with human cargoes that will almost completely fill the arena of long leaf pine when the Boston fighter and the young Georgian climb through the ropes around 10 o'clock Wednesday night.

W. F. Carey, the directing chief of Madison Square Garden, estimated that the gate will be close around $100,000 of which Sharkey will get $100,000 and Stribling in the neighborhood of $70,000 and if they don't fight for this much money with the big chance at stake they won't fight at all.

Training Finished

Sharkey and Stribling have finished their training with the exception of a strained ligament in Stribling's side which is about well, they are both as near edge as the two fighters can hope to get after several weeks' working in steamy sun and salty wind.

When Sharkey and Stribling square away there will be more concentrated wealth and social standing around this area in Flamingo park than even the late Tex Rickard could gather at Philadelphia and Chicago when Tunney and Dempsey settled their two quarrels.

In addition to the millionaires and multi-millionaires and almost billions, the crowd will also contain hundreds of names known from Boston to Los Angeles, leading producers, playwrights, actors, song writers, novelists, tennis and polo stars, swimming champions, ball players. In the list are Charlie Dillingham, John Golden, George White, Irving Berlin, Lou Holt, John Hertz, Albert Lasker, Roy Chaspin, Roy Long, Johnny Wesseller, Frank Hunter, John Van Ryan, Johnny Hennessey, Helen Meany, Nelson Talbot, Tommy Armour, Carl Condit, Lew Wurdz, James F. Walker, Walter Camp, Jim Bush, Roy Howard, James J. Corbett and others too numerous to mention.

Hordes of men of America's industrial enterprises are among those packing the beach and the city of Miami to the last square foot.

The late afternoon sky seems to be dotted with planes. Pullmans in the railroad yards are full of human tenants. Every hotel room is taken with hundreds of cuts packed into all the open gaps.

Most of the following is back of Jack Sharkey who now faces his fourth chance to go after the heavyweight crown which Gene Tunney laid aside. Sharkey had his first chance against Jack Dempsey 18 months ago and blew it. He had his second chance against Tom Heeny in New York and his third chance against Johnny Risko in the same city. In spite of his three failures at least two of the famous writers and the camp followers are picking him to outpoint the slender Georgian, possibly knock him out. Sharkey will weigh in Stribling 10 pounds. He will enter the ring around 10:30 or 11:00 while Stribling will have already had time to beat 180 while Sharkey has to be in the best physical condition of his career he also looks comparatively slow compared to the speed which the southern fighter has shown in his work.

Stribling Is Faster

Stribling is much the faster boxer and much the faster puncher and while most of the experts are picking Sharkey, most of the old-time boxers and old-time fighters who have seen Stribling work in the last year are picking the pride of the south.

Yet how is anyone to make a pick upon past performances, knowing how little training stuff can show? I have seen Stribling in seven fights. At least five of them were bad and only one was above par, that against Risko, who later on stopped Sharkey's march. I have seen Sharkey almost as many times, but after a great start against Wills and Maloney and two brilliant rounds against Jack Dempsey he has done nothing to cheer about since. The facts are that Sharkey hasn't fought a good fight since Dempsey stopped him, and Stribling hasn't taken on a tough opponent in nearly a year. Yet they are rated the two outstanding heavyweights, with Schmeling not to be overlooked. They can both fight if they will and here are many, among them Eddie Mack, the Boston promoter, who believe it will be a rip-tearing affair full of fire and action. Eddie Mack believes it will be a whale of a fight, with Sharkey winning by a knockout in six or seven rounds.

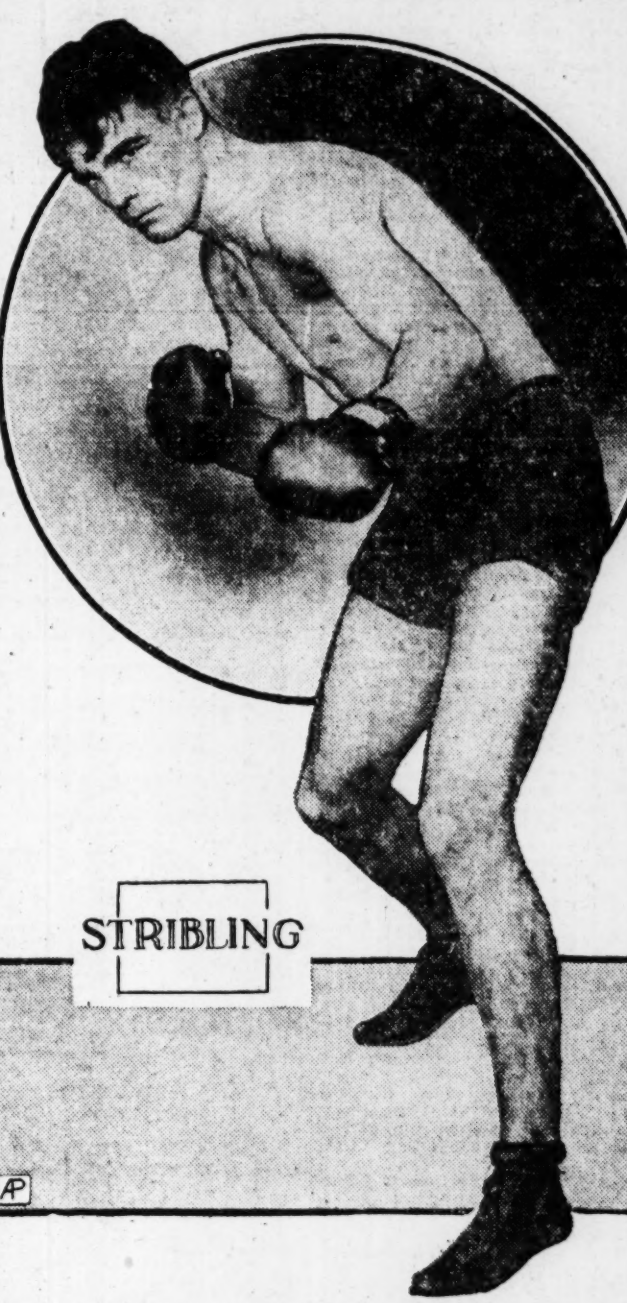

Just what effect southern support for Stribling will have through the fight is still a guess. Large delegations of Georgians have already arrived and are going to stay. It is you that Stribling has promised to wipe out that Berlenbach smear and either stop Sharkey or maul him badly. They will be on hand to give the Georgian all the support in the world, provided he wades into the fight. If he flops again he might as well move out of Georgia, because he will be critically judged by backers who have seen him flop before.

Both Sharkey and Stribling owe the public more than one blazing scrap and both have the greatest chance of their careers to pay back part of the debt. For there will be over 300 newspaper writers at the ringside covering every section of the country, all waiting to see just how far these two heavyweights will snap out of their past.

Ed Dickerson, the well-known referee and writer from Grand Rapids, who has refereed 12 of Stribling's fights, is one of those picking Stribling to win. He believes with many others in this locality that Stribling has improved immensely in the last year and will be an entirely different fighter from the wrestling wonder of other years.

Stribling has a right hand punch as fast as a carpenter's when the Frenchman was at his best and will have a right hand uppercut that stops almost anyone he nails. But hitting Sharkey with a right hand is not the easiest job in the world, for the Boston entry is a cagey, shifty fighter who knows his stuff. For that matter they are both cagey and both are hard to hit, too hard to hit if they decide to take no chances and make

SOUTH'S TITLE HOPE

Here Are Facts on Big Bout--Odds On Sharkey--Referee Sole Arbitrator

Miami Beach, Fla., February 26. (AP)—The main facts and figures on the Stribling-Sharkey fight show:

Principals—Jack Sharkey, Boston, 26 years old, and William Lawrence Stribling, Macon, Ga., 24 years old.

Conditions—Ten-round bout, under rules of the New York State Athletic commission, to an official referee's decision, with Lou Magnolia, of New York, as third man in the ring and sole arbitrator, no judges being involved. Johnny Russell, Boston, is alternate main bout referee.

Time—Preliminary bouts start at 7:45 p. m., eastern standard time; main bout at 10 p. m. In case of rain, postponement to Thursday night.

Purse—One hundred thousand dollars guaranteed to Sharkey and $40,000 to Stribling.

Estimated gross receipts—Three hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars, with profit of $125,000 to Madison Square Garden corporation.

Estimated crowd—Thirty thousand to 35,000, the capacity of Flamingo Park.

Betting odds—Six to five on Sharkey.

Semifinal bout—Johnny Grosso, New York, vs. Marty Gallagher, Washington, D. C., eight rounds.

It is a defensive fight. If this happens it will be a terrible sight to look upon, but with so much at stake it is hard to figure how both can pass up the last chance either will ever get after one of those hauling, tugging, wrestling matches.

It looks to me like a close decision, with little chance for a knockout. If Sharkey couldn't hit Heeny, Risko or Christner effectively it is not easy to picture him nailing the fast, crafty Stribling with any knockout blow unless they both tear it. Sharkey is much the best man Stribling ever met and he has stopped few fighters who had any heavyweight or light-heavy rating. Sharkey is a moody, temperamental fighter and if he has one of those explosions he had in the early rounds of the Dempsey fight there will be a young cyclone turned loose for the edification of some 34,000 souls. In and outers are the hardest enemies in the game to figure out and these have been among the champion in and outers of their day and time.

Jack Dempsey says the first preliminary will go on at 7:45 o'clock, when over 35 huge lamps will blaze down on the ring, set in the center of the pine bowl. There will be a battle royal not on at 8:30 o'clock and after a series of four-round bouts the main affair will be sprung around 10 o'clock. Both Dempsey and Magnolia, the referee, state positively that there will be a lot of fighting or a lot of trouble for somebody. It may work that way, but who can tell with so many modern fighters still watching their clins more attentively than the other fellow?

A Craig Kennedy Mystery Story

BY ARTHUR B. REEVE.

INSTALLMENT 4.

We had come to an impasse there, too. "Evidently," I remarked, "the thing that no one dares to talk about or even hint in the papers is the strange attitude of his relatives toward him at this time of his disappearance—and the suggestion of foul play. Can't some of you fellows let us in for a little more information along that line? They are queer, these heirs." Kennedy smiled quizzically and I felt that at last I was leading the conversation around to an important phase of the case. "Just who is this Ashley, for instance? What is his business, if he has one?"

"He's a horticulturist over on Long Island, has some big greenhouses out near Easthampton." Deering of the Record assumed the posture of importance as if about to furnish a perfectly good suspicion.

"We've made inquiries out there at Easthampton and he has some big notes at the bank due shortly. I am not saying anything, but that is how the wind is blowing from that quarter."

"And there's that Montauk rumor—that way, too," noted the little Sun man.

Kennedy was leaning back, eyes closed, but alert. A smile played about his lips.

"What about these others," I asked, "Burroughs and the girl?"

"I know Burroughs, too," pursued Deering. "For a chap who is supposed to have a lot of money he is the limit. He can't spend his principal. The old folks were on to him and fixed the will. Besides, he has the gambling fever. His allowance is spent before he gets it. Otherwise he's a pretty decent chap. It would be hard for me to think of him as a thug or a poisoner—but he always needs money."

Deering spread out his hands with an expressive gesture of suspicion.

"What about this Martha Mix, Jim, the one interested in you?" I couldn't help getting back at him.

"Oh, she never had any money. Her mother married a poor man who proceeded to invest nearly all his wife's money. When Martha came along, the family fortune was what hadn't been invested—not very much. I rather hope when Harvard kicks off—if and when, as the lawyers say—that he does leave her this house. She's so crazy for a nice home and rather hates the idea of selling her share to the highest bidder to get one."

"How do you know so much? Has she refused you and your offer for a home?" I asked, impatiently.

"I know better than to ask. I have something else to do with my hard-earned money than to buy curtains for all these windows." He waved his hand about at the huge plate-glass panes of the library that afforded such a wonderful view of the surrounding hills and woodland. "And then, you know, Walter I met her only yesterday. I'm not a fast worker."

"There's this awful silence from him," commented Cunningham, with a scowl over our kidding, groping desperately for his theory No. 3. "It looks like four play to me. Surely if a man read the papers he would let somebody know, to stop this hue and cry."

"It's quite possible he doesn't know," objected George Rule. "One can be buried in the Canadian woods or, for that matter, in any wild place, hunting, for weeks, without hearing what is going on or even being able to get in touch with the outside world."

So it went with every theory or idea as soon as suggested. As fast as a new lead was developed, it would be shattered, would go the way of a dozen others previously. There seemed to be clues—too many of them, perhaps. But none that was any good. There was absolutely nothing to hang the reason for his disappearance upon.

As for me, I could not help thinking of Kennedy's theory of the senses. Which one was it that this case hinged on? As far as I could see, none of the senses, of all the five, seemed to apply here. Suddenly a bright idea flashed through my mind. But I said nothing of it to anybody, least of all to Kennedy. Here was indeed a case for telepathy or something psychic or supernatural I had heard of television—the faculty some are supposed to possess whereby they may touch some article belonging to a dead or missing person and forthwith obtain a vision of the owner. Kennedy was uncanny to me. Might he not possess, might he not develop, this sense of television?

I fancied I could see how it was with Kennedy. He wasn't offering much in the way of ideas. He was busy knocking out to interview us, eliminating the impossible and keeping quiet as to the rest.

We entered upon a discussion of the probability of a woman being mixed up in the disappearance, falling back upon the old stand-by, Cherchez La Femme. But no women had disappeared lately to our knowledge. Besides, Quaker Ridge gossip had it that Rudyard had been living very quietly for the last few months, almost the life of a recluse. His only diversions seemed to have been his books and tramping or riding about the country roads and lanes. Rudyard had been a man to whom other men were sufficient. The opposite sex had rather bored, even annoyed him. It is true, he was always courteous to the ladies. It was his nature to be so with everybody. But women he avoided, actually seemed to be ill at ease in their company.

"When we drove in," I ventured, "I saw that Rudyard had built a gas tank beside the garage. Maybe that may show something about his car—or cars—or even about his trip, if he took one."

It was an idea, at least. I went over to the garage. There seemed to be no bills or statements as to gas. And the tank was dry. In fact even the vapor of gas was not in evidence. It was as though it had been dry and unused some time. Again I was disappointed. It seemed as if everything I thought of turned out to be nothing, or at least something quite indefinite.

BYRD WIDOW DENIES MURDER KNOWLEDGE

Woman Defendant at Blackshear Trial Takes Stand; Affirms Innocence.

Blackshear, Ga., February 26.—(AP) Mrs. Agnes Byrd's unsworn statement in which she denied any knowledge of how her husband, Dr. Byrd, died, was her only defense in her trial for murder in connection with his death last August, and for which F. Brandon, Saturday, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Immediately after the widow left the stand, the defense attorney informed the court that the prosecution's case was closed. Arguments were then set for opening of court tomorrow.

With the announcement of the state that it rested this afternoon, Mrs. Byrd was called to make her unsworn statement to the jury. The widow was on the stand about 10 minutes, making a blanket denial of all charges and testimony against her.

"I know nothing whatever about my husband's death," she said. "I was in the house when he was killed, but I did not see him killed. I was in the house when he was killed, but I did not see him killed. I was in the house when he was killed, but I did not see him killed."

"I was in the house when he was killed, but I did not see him killed. I was in the house when he was killed, but I did not see him killed. I was in the house when he was killed, but I did not see him killed."

Woman Defendant at Blackshear Trial Takes Stand; Affirms Innocence.

DAY IN FINANCE

By R. L. BARNUM

New York, February 26.—Stocks opened a trifle higher, sold off when call money opened at 8 per cent and then went to 9 at noon with the banks calling $40,000,000. However, on the decline the stock market got very dull. Later in the day, ignoring higher money copper and oil shares were active.

There was a further advance of 1-4 of a cent to 18 1/2 cents in the price of foreign copper with predictions that the domestic price would be to 3-4 per cent. A year ago the rate was 14 per cent. Copper prices are now the highest since the ending of the 1920 boom. For the past few days there has been heavy business in copper with producers admitting that the market has gotten out of hand.

Anders Copper started regular quarterly dividend today at the rate of $3. All copper companies are now making more money than at any time in the last eight years. Higher prices for copper are confidently predicted.

There was a firmer market today for commercial paper, the rate going to 3-4 per cent. A year ago the rate was 4 per cent.

In informed quarters here firmer money reflects increased momentum in the market, moving federal reserve banks having large commitments in the call money market upon which the stock market feeds. Since then there have been increasing signs that the federal reserve banks were carrying on the construction of the federal reserve bank with the member banks in turn increasingly calling.

Chicago, February 26.—(AP)—For at least the time being corn today acted as grain market leader, scoring a brisk advance and forcing wheat almost upward toward the close. In indications pointed to fresh buying of corn for export and there were talk reports around that unofficial March stocks would show a farm reserve of corn to be smaller than was the case a year ago.

Closing quotations on corn were strong to 1-3/4c to 1-1/2c up, while wheat finished 1-2c to 1-1/4c up, oats 1-4c to 3-4c advance, and provisions varying from 1/2c decline to a rise of 1/2c.

Activity of dealings, as well as an upward swing in prices, began to manifest itself in the corn pit almost from the start. Commission houses and individual speculators were persistent buyers, stimulated by expectation that the general thaw prevailing in Chicago would check markets for corn.

Chicago corn offerings to arrive were zero. And there hardly more than that off apparent in a decided fall-off in the market.

Primary contracts, today's arrivals at the leading terminals amounted to 2,247,000 bushels, compared with 2,247,000 bushels a year ago.

Moreover, belief was expressed in movement here that the corn crop small, a good deal better would prove year. On the other hand, some exporters in the southwest were mentioned as taking all the corn they could get.

Buying of corn future contracts continued unabated, and the market closed at day's topmost level.

Largely owing to corn strength, wheat advanced after a decline, while provisions were associated with reports of improved crop conditions for domestic winter wheat. It seemed, however, to reflect much of yesterday's advance.

Special attention was likewise given to a statement from a leading private crop authority that he expected winter wheat losses to be shown in domestic and that fields which are covered with snow will certainly suffer.

Area derived some of their firmness from word that there has been no seeding of oats in the southwest.

Provisions averaged somewhat higher, responsive to firmness of hog values.
